CHANCELLOR WIRTH AND HIS CABINET RESIGN ON LOSING SOCIALIST SUPPORT

Refusal of Party to Participate in Coalition Ministry Including Members of People's Party, Industrialists, Precipitates Ministry's Move.

DOWNTOWN LAID TO POLICY OF INACTIVITY

With Apparently Lost Initiative and Inspiration After Assassination of Rathenau and Had Lived in Fear for Life.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Nov. 15.—The German Cabinet, headed by Chancellor Wirth, has fallen. The ministerial resignations, filed last night, were precipitated by the decision of the United Socialists not to participate in a coalition ministry which included members of the German People's party, an industrial party, an industrial party, and Gustav Stehann and Hugo Stenner.

The friends of Chancellor Wirth were not oblivious of the feeling that he had outlived his usefulness and now has become a victim of a policy of indecision and inactivity which found its culmination in the Government's failure to make a practical arrangement with the allied Reparations Commission during the course of its recent visit to Berlin.

Felt Loss of Rathenau.
Ever since the assassination of Foreign Minister Rathenau, the Chancellor has been described as a man who apparently possessed no inspiration or initiative. This attitude gave added weight to the contention that the late Foreign Minister was Wirth's inspiration, and the force which urged him on.

With the passing of Dr. Rathenau the Chancellor visibly lost influence with his Cabinet colleagues. As a result the support given his "policy of fulfillment" diminished day by day. He admitted the collapse of this policy last summer when he announced that the Government's slogan had become dead first, then reparation.

Foreign Criticism Hurt.

Foreign criticisms of the alleged weakness of the Cabinet, emanating from London, as well as Berlin, during the last few days, contributed to undermining the Chancellor's position, even in the ranks of the coalition party. His related spouse of the people's party's necessary adjunction to the Government definitely alienated the support he had received from the Socialists.

Since the assassination of Dr. Rathenau, the Chancellor has been associated with few if any personal safety. During the last few months a heavy guard has constantly surrounded him.

Chancellor Wirth's efforts to extend the Government coalition to include the German People's party really founders on the unrelenting antagonism of the United Socialists to any participation in a cabinet in which the Stinnes-Stresemann group would be represented.

Vote in Reichstag Last Night.

The vote which finally precipitated the crisis came last night; the Socialists in the Reichstag decided by a large majority against any extension of the coalition to include the party of the industrialists.

Throughout the day there was hope that a truce might be effected, especially in view of the Government's new reparations proposals, drafted by the Cabinet, which included four Socialists.

Chancellor Wirth had hoped that the new reparations note would constitute the rallying point for an agreement in the Government coalition, especially as it had the approval of the Clerical, Democratic and the People's parties. Even the friends of President Ebert to persuade his party friends to continue in the Government have been unwilling.

The procedure of the radicals last night in bringing to a vote their stand on the coalition ministry, which would include representatives of the German People's party, was viewed wholly as a tactical maneuver calculated to impress the radical voters who have been told by their leaders and their press for months that official alliance with the

ST. LOUIS APPLIES FOR 1923 AERO MEET AND PULITZER TROPHY RACE

Request Sent to National Aeronautical Association by Committee Formed Tentatively at Meeting.

St. Louis has applied for the 1923 meet of the National Aeronautical Association, and the Pulitzer trophy race, which will be the principal feature of the meet. A telegram making this application, in behalf of the city, was sent yesterday to the headquarters of the National Aeronautical Association in Washington, and to Howard E. Coffin, president, in Detroit.

The telegram, sent after a meeting of a committee formed tentatively at the meeting, was:

Albert Bond Lambert outlined his view as to a suitable course for the Pulitzer race, which is flown over a 160-mile distance, which may be three or more times around a course of proportional length. Mr. Lambert suggests that the race here be held around a course of $3.1-3 miles.

A triangular course from the field at Bridgeton to a point northeast of Alton, thence to a point northwest of St. Peter's, in St. Charles County, and thence back to the field, would permit hundreds of thousands of persons to view the race," Lambert said. Favorable viewpoints within easy reach of the city would be along the Natural Bridge road, Hall's Ferry road and Florissant road, and steamboats on the river would also furnish a good view.

"The speed in the Pulitzer race should reach 300 miles an hour, or could approximate it. As this is the pre-eminent speed event, the rest of the meet, in my opinion, could profitably have contests in other lines than speed. There should be a mail and express carrying contest, for the plane which can fly slowest with the heaviest load. A glider contest, from some of the hills west of the field, would also be of great interest."

Pulitzer Race Speed Contest.

The Pulitzer trophy is the world's most important prize for speed in aerial navigation. It is a beautiful silver statue of a woman holding in her uplifted hands an airplane and a trophy cup. Spirit of Speed.

It is awarded annually until it is won twice in succession by some one contestant, when it will become that contestant's property. It was donated by Ralph Pulitzer, Joseph Pulitzer and Herbert Pulitzer, for the purpose of furthering the art of flying.

The first contest for the trophy was held on Thanksgiving day, 1920, four times over a 23-mile course starting and ending at Mineola, Long Island. It was won by Capt. L. C. Mosely, U. S. A., who covered the 132-mile distance in 44 minutes 29.57 seconds, or almost three miles a minute.

His machine was designed and built in America. Mosely's spectacular performance was witnessed by 40,000 persons at Mitchel Field. Minella.

The second contest was held at Omaha, Nov. 3, 1921, and the trophy was won by Bert Acosta of New York. His speed, in five laps around a triangular course, a total distance of 153 1/2 miles, was 176.9 miles an hour.

The third race was flown over Selfridge Field, Mount Clemens, Mich., and Lake St. Clair, north of Detroit, Oct. 14 last. The winner, Lieut. Frank L. Vaughan, U. S. A., made a officially estimated at 206 miles an hour. The number of spectators ran into the hundreds of thousands. More than 25,000 went through the gates at Selfridge Field.

The speed attained in the next Pulitzer race should be more than 250 miles an hour, perhaps as high as 300, or five miles a minute. Lieut. Vaughan's announced time in the Pulitzer race last month was 206 miles an hour, but the Government test showed that his rate was as high as 248 for one kilometer.

SECRET OF EINSTEIN THEORY ON 12 PHOTOGRAPHIC PLATES

Exposures Believed to Have Successfully Registered Heavens During Darkening of Sun.

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, Nov. 15.—Twelve photographic plates, carefully packed and closely guarded, which passed through here yesterday bound for San Francisco from Sydney, Australia, are believed to hold the secret of whether Einstein is right or wrong.

The plates are the result of photographs of the recent solar eclipse taken at Wollong, Australia, by Prof. W. W. Campbell of Lick Observatory, Cal., and his assistants.

Prof. Campbell said that surface inspection of the plates indicated that the exposures had been successfully registered the heavenly panorama it stood during the darkening of the sun Sept. 21, but that microscopic measurements must precede any announcement of error or disproof of Einstein's theory of the bending of light.

Moody was arrested last night, as were two other men, both chauffeurs who police say have oral statements admitting participation in the holdup. Moody said he planned the affair with one of the two men, who in turn induced the third man to join them. Moody said a package containing $550 was delivered to his wife by one of the men after the holdup and that he does not know where the rest of the money is. Police say the two men declare they gave Mrs. Moody all of the money obtained in the holdup except $100 each, which they retained for themselves.

Kipling Operation Successful.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Rudyard Kipling successfully underwent an operation today. This announcement, made this evening, follows published statements that the noted author was ill in a private hospital and that it might be necessary for him to undergo a somewhat serious operation.

STRANGE PHENOMENON OF SKY SPREADS NEW TERROR IN QUAKE AREA

By the Associated Press.
COQUIMBO, Chile, Nov. 15.
FURTHER terror has been spread among the inhabitants of the district devastated by the earthquake by a strange phenomenon observed Monday night.

A line like a great ribbon passed along the horizon over the sea from south to north, this being repeated every two or three minutes. The people were so alarmed that few slept fearing a new catastrophe.

PRISONERS SET FREE BY QUAKE LOOT STRICKEN CHILEAN CITIES

Martial Law Declared at Valparaiso and Copiapo Owing to the Robberies Which Bands Have Been Perpetrating Upon the Distressed Population.

DISASTERS CENTERED IN TWO PROVINCES

Scarcely a House Remains Standing in One Valley—1200 Miles of the Coast Felt Effects of Great Tidal Wave.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—By direction of President Harding, Secretary Denby today ordered the cruisers Cleveland and Denver to proceed at once to Huasco, Chile, with food, clothing and medical supplies for relief in the region recently devastated by the earthquake.

By the Associated Press.
SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 15.—Scarcely a house remains standing in the Valparaiso valley in Northern Chile as the result of the earthquakes and marine disturbances last week. The full extent of the disaster which centered upon the provinces of Atacama and Coquimbo became more fully known today with the reopening of telegraph communications with Northern Chile.

In these two provinces the victim number 1500, so far as is now known, but it is expected the number of dead will be substantially increased when communications are resumed with many small villages in the interior.

Dispatches today from La Serena told of serious damage which the earthquake inflicted upon the Topo mines.

Martial Law Declared.

Martial law has been declared at Valparaiso and in Copiapo owing to the looting which bands have been perpetrating upon the distressed population. The bands are believed for the most part to be prisoners who escaped from jail.

Twelve hundred miles of the coast. The felt in varying degrees the effect of the great tidal waves which followed the earth shocks, and for a large proportion of this distance, seaports, towns and villages were inundated. Now, four days after the disaster, thousands of families are wandering about the countryside. Their distress is great, for they have little clothing and few supplies.

Debris Being Removed.

The removal of debris in the affected region has been started with the help of soldiers. Eighty per cent of the buildings are down and the others are greatly damaged. Soldiers are patrolling the towns, by day and the police by night. A state of siege is being maintained.

Many small inland villages near Copiapo were destroyed. San Fernando is in ruins. Twenty-three persons were killed there. At the village of Tierra Amarilla four persons are dead and half the town is in ruins. At San Antonio seven are dead and the town is a wreck. Casualties far reported from Copiapo number the dead at 60 and the injured at 110.

Travellers arriving from Chanarillo, a mining town in the province of Atacama, say the earthquake was felt there with great intensity. The schools opened deep fissures in the hills and caused frightful noise.

Relief Trains on Way.

The correspondent of the newspaper, Mercurio, who has arrived at Copiapo, says that when the earthquake was first felt there Friday night the eastern sky was illuminated by huge red flames of great intensity. The tremors continued intermittently all night and Saturday morning. Just before midnight Sunday another prolonged quake was felt, and it was repeated intermittently until daybreak Monday. During the tremors, young girls at a convent school jumped out of the windows. Many of them were seriously injured when the second floor sagged down.

The hospital and prison at Copiapo are in ruins, but the prisoners and sick escaped injury. Prisoners of guilty of slight offenses were freed. Several criminals broke jail.

President Alessandri departed to-day to visit the devastated zone. Official telegram of tell 2000 refugees in Coquimbo, where the property loss is estimated at 7,000,000 pesos; of removal of dead still going on in the ruins of Valparaiso, where the damage is placed at $4,000,000; of people sleeping in the open air at various points; of still other places destroyed, such as the port of Cruz Grande. Latest advices from Copiapo confirm the destruction of the towns of Freirina and Huasco.

Relief Trains on Way.

A dispatch to the Mercurio from Coquimbo says the American Vice Consul there stated all Americans in Coquimbo were well. Regarding Americans employed in the mines or the steel company in the Higuera district, the dispatch says an engi-

ARRESTED AFTER PICKETING EMBASSY

Mrs. Mac Swiney and Two Other Women Refused Bond and Spent Night in House of Detention.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—United States Commissioner George H. McDonald late today dismissed complaints against Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney and eight other women, who were arrested yesterday on charges involving their picketing on the British Embassy in protest against the detention of Miss Mary MacSwiney, sister-in-law of Mrs. MacSwiney and sister of the late Terence MacSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork.

In discharging the prisoners, after a hearing of nearly three hours, the Commissioner said he did not "feel that the proof in the case measures up to the intent of the law."

The charge against the nine women read: "Did unlawfully, wilfully and feloniously insult, menace and offer bodily harm and violence to the person of his excellency, the Ambassador of Great Britain, in the United States, the Hon Sir Auckland Geddes, assault, affront and insult him in violation of said section of revised statutes of the United States and the law of nations."

Represented by Two Lawyers. The women are represented before Commissioner McDonald by F. H. Finley, president of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic. Michael Francis Boyle of Philadelphia also represented the women.

Mrs. MacSwiney and two others of the protesters refused bond and spent last night in the House of Detention, having been arrested yesterday during a demonstration in protest of the detention of Miss Mary MacSwiney, sister of Terence, who is a prisoner in the dwelling house of him, the said Hon. Sir Auckland Geddes, assault, affront and insult him in violation of said section of revised statutes of the United States and the law of nations."

It was said the invention would lead to new methods of bombing.

Plane With Automatic Control Flies 90 Miles

Army Air Service Device Called More Dependable Than Human Pilots and Most Important Post-War Attack Development.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The pilotless army airplane, equipped with an automatic control device said to be more accurate and dependable than any human pilot, has been developed to a point where it has made successful flights of more than 90 miles, it is announced by the Army Air Service.

The announcement declares re-one official declaring it would be entirely practical to load the craft with explosives that would discharge upon contact with greater destructive effect against any target on land or water.

Other military usages, it was predicted, would be discovered as the experiments continued and the experience in the new field of flying became broadened.

"Of the automatic pilots being experimented with by the army air service," a statement said, "that which has proven most successful to date can be described as using a gyroscope for its brains and bellows and pneumatics, similar to those used in player-pianos, for its muscles.

"The ability of a balanced rotating mass, moving on frictionless bearings, to maintain its position in space, so long as it is not acted upon by outside forces, is reported as a major factor in the success of the gyroscopic units used.

"This force is made use of in the stabilizing and directing of the air plane on a trial basis. Two separate and distinct gyroscope units are used for this purpose. The function of one is to direct the lateral and longitudinal variations in flight and the other to maintain a true direction.

"These gyroscopes are electrically driven from a generator geared to the airplane engine and run continuously during the flight. The sense of direction, whether it be vertical, horizontal or fore and aft, is taken from its respective unit and transmitted by means of leakage ports in the pneumatic system which, in turn, control the valves and regulate the supply of power corresponding to the nerves of the human body. The power pneumatics are directly connected to the surfaces of the airplane and the engine vacuum is sustained by a pump gear driven from the airplane engine.

"There," the statement added, "we have the three functions of the pilot: the gyroscopes functioning as the brain, the relay valves and tubes as the nerves and the power pneumatics as the muscles."

escaped the attention of the officials and from the evidence in this case nothing has been learned to this time. According to the statement of Flagman Boston, when officials were riding with them, they made only a pretense of flagging.

The violation of the rules in the improper handling of train order No. 50 is another indication of lax observance of the rules and is apparently being condoned, as Supt. Miller considered the rule was compiled with and Dispatcher Eustis believed it a safe practice.

"The Missouri Pacific Railway Co. should promptly take steps to secure proper obedience to its rules and regulations to prevent the recurrence of accidents of this character."

has given formal assurances to the French that the stipulations of the Bulgaria armistice agreement will be spected.

The Kemalists state that they accept the presence of allied troops within the limits laid down by the Dardanelles convention and declare their readiness to discuss with the French measures for their security.
They reiterate, however, their demand that all interference in the internal administration of Turkey be discontinued.

The foregoing declarations are stated in a note which Rafet Pasha, the Turkish Governor, will present to the allies this afternoon.
Another disagreeable aspect to the general situation has arisen from reports from Brussels that two French generals have been assassinated by Kemalist soldiers, who forced entrance into a convent. The French authorities here have vigorously protested to Rafet Pasha, the nationalist Governor of Constantinople, demanding an immediate examination and assurance against a petition of such assaults.

EKS TO SELL $5,000,000 MORE IN STATE ROAD BONDS

shway Commission's Construction Program Rapidly Advancing—Maplewood Project Approved.

Official to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 15.—The Highway Commission yesterday adopted a resolution asking the Board of Fund Commissioners to next month a second $5,000,- 000 installment of the $60,000,000 state roads bonds to meet requirements of the rapidly advancing construction program.

The highway department now has about $10,000,000 projected totaling an excess of $14,000,000, which will increase to $19,000,000 within the month and to $15,000,000 by spring.

The commission heard a delegation from Maplewood, asking for the approvement of a stretch of the Chester road extending about a mile and one-half from the city limits of Maplewood. This the commission promised to undertake and the project will be included in the group of projects advertised for bids in January.

All bids of Mount Sterling bridge over the Gasconade River were reviewed as the lowest was $10,000 above the estimates. Unless one of the bidders will accept the contract the engineer's estimate the job will be readvertised.

NON TAXICAB DRIVER FINED

Charles Lang, 27 years old, of 317
Eagon avenue, a union taxicab driver, was fined $25 in the Court of Moral Correction today on a charge of malicious destruction of property.

Bernard Stock, 26, a nonunion taxicab driver, testified that when he was on a call at Thirty-ninth and Flora boulevard, about 10 a.m., on Sept. 30, Lang threw an noxious smelling "bomb" into his cab.

Some time later, Stock said, at the same time threw a brick through the cab windows. Lang defended the charge, saying he was automatically riding in another part of the cab at the time of the attack.

MINERS GREATLY IN MAJORITY

The third day of examination of veniremen opened with miners greatly predominating, as on the preceding days among the men examined.

The first one, Sam Hester, miner, had an opinion and was quickly disposed of; the second, George Cox, although a miner and distantly related to Otis Clark, one of the defendants, asked questions with such discrimination and apparent honesty that his examination was prolonged. He had an opinion on some things in connection with the case as fairly and impartially as if the union question was not involved. The more certain they were of this, the more certain they were to be challenged by the State. Two whose straightforwardness in spite of their union affiliations made a favorable impression on the lawyers
for the prosecution, and their acceptance seemed not improbable, but
they were rejected.

FIRST TO DRAW DISTINCTION

One of these was Tom Reynolds, a Herrin miner. He was the first who drew a distinction between his feelings as to whether the massacre was right or wrong and his desire to operate the strip mine with nonunion labor.

He declared there was nothing in his view of union labor and its rights and "scab" labor and its lawful rights which would prevent him from returning an honest verdict.

He said the opinion he had formed about some things in connection with the affair was not a product of his convictions and sentiments on unionism.

He said he was a third cousin of Otis Clark and an acquaintance of Bert Grace, another defendant. He declared he could not try Clark as impartial as if he were a stranger.

A statement in a local newspaper that the defendants had been receiving from the United Mine Workers $10.50 a day, equivalent to their approximate earnings when at work, since their incarceration, was denied by the defense. It is known that the union has been providing food and other attentions for the men in jail and has been looking after their families.

"NO FLOWERS" RULE MADE

A "no flowers" rule affecting the defendants was put into effect by Angus W. Kerr, chief counsel for the defense, this morning before court convened.

Judge Houser instructed the jury
this morning.

Arguments were completed yesterday, Bertie Herlington, defense attorney, speaking on behalf of the defendant, and Charles W. Fricke, Defendant District Attorney, concluding the State's appeal that Mrs. Phillips be made to pay the death penalty for the murder charged to her.

"She knows herself guilty and doesn't expect to escape," Fricke asserted. "All she is hoping for is that that won't be the death penalty."

The Deputy District Attorney now denied the defense claim that Mrs.
Phillips did not commit the crime.
"Every act of the defendant since the slaying shows a guilty knowledge," he declared.

Kerr's appearance in court was unexpected, following a request yesterday for an adjournment on account of his illness.

He explained that it was harder for him to worry at home than to be

DEFENSE MAKING USE OF CHALLENGE RULING

Forced State to Expend Eight Peremptory Challenges at Cost of One in Refilling Place on Panel.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MARION, Ill., Nov. 15.—By the order of the State of George Cox, a miner, and his acceptance by the defense in the Herrin massacre case, and the acceptance by the defense of three others, who had previously been tendered by the State, the first panel of four jurors was completed at 11:15 a.m. today. The acceptance of Cox was preceded by extended conferences of the attorneys on both sides.

The attorneys for the State were influenced in their acceptance and order of Cox by the realization that sooner or later they would have to accept miners as jurors and by the fact that Cox impressed them as a thoroughly honest man, who would return a fair verdict in spite of his minership.

Acceptance of the defense precluded
later challenging of any of these four, although they have not yet been sworn.

The other three are farmers, Oscar Swanson, 50 years old; John Weaver, 55, and Henry Riddle, 57, who were tendered by the State Monday along with G. M. Huggins, who was peremptorily challenged by the defense.

At the afternoon session the defense forced the State to expend eight peremptory challenges to prevent the defense from refilling
the panel with a venireman unacceptable to the State, making a total of 14 such challenges for the two days.

The tactics of the defense were favored by the continuing preponderance of the coal miners on the panel. Of the 18 examined yesterday 14 were miners or part time miners, or former miners who were either exempted for age or accepted by the State either because of seeming eagerness to serve or because of presumed bias in favor of the defendants.

There was no half-way attitude on the part of those who were suspected of a desire to serve. They affirmed repeatedly, in spite of their union affiliations, that they could decide the case as fairly and impartially as if the union question was not involved.

The more certain they were
of this, the more certain they were to be challenged by the State. Two whose straightforwardness in spite of
their union affiliations made a favorable impression on the lawyers
for the prosecution, and their acceptance seemed not improbable, but
they were rejected.

Striking Portrait of Woodrow Wilson Greeting His Armistice Day Visitors

Wide World Photograph

After the former President had concluded his speech last Saturday afternoon he stepped into his open touring car and took a short ride in the street in front of his home so that the thousands of visitors who could not get near him on his porch might have a close view of him.

Mrs. Wilson accompanied him on the ride. It was obvious to all that his health was greatly improved and that, though far from recovered, he had made great strides in "coming back" physically.

In court. With his return an adjournment became improbable unless when the present panel is exhausted and there is delay in getting a new panel.

Hugh Willis of Herrin, the miners' leader in this district, himself under indictment, sat at the defense counsel table today.

ATTACK ON STATE'S CHALLENGES.

The defense throughout Monday and Tuesday concentrated its attack against the State's excuse of peremptory challenges. By the simple expedient of breaking the panel of four tendered by the State the day before, at the cost of a single peremptory challenge, the defense forced the State to expend eight peremptory challenges to prevent the defense from refilling the panel with a venireman unacceptable to the State, making a total of 14 such challenges for the two days.

The tactics of the defense were favored by the continuing preponderance of the coal miners on the panel. Of the 18 examined yesterday 14 were miners or part time miners, or former miners who were either exempted for age or accepted by the State either because of seeming eagerness to serve or because of presumed bias in favor of the defendants.

There was no half-way attitude on the part of those who were suspected of a desire to serve. They affirmed repeatedly, in spite of their union affiliations, that they could decide the case as fairly and impartially as if the union question was not involved.

The more certain they were of this, the more certain they were to be challenged by the State. Two whose straightforwardness in spite of their union affiliations made a favorable impression on the lawyers for the prosecution, and their acceptance seemed not improbable, but they were rejected.

WIRTH SOUGHT QUICK ACTION.

Throughout Monday and Tuesday parties comprising the radical wing stiffened their opposition to the proposed extension of the Government and the deciding vote was pushed through after defeated candidates for Justice of the Peace and Constable in the Fifth District filed contests in the Circuit Court and formally asked the Election Board for a recount of the ballot.

FARMER KILLS NEGRO WHO ROBBED WOMAN

Fugitive Attempted to Draw Revolver When One of Armed Searchers Halted Him.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 15.—An unidentified negro robber was slain by one of a number of farmers searching for him last night near Little Blue, Mo., after he had held up and robbed Mrs. William Shands, wife of a farmer living near that town. When Mrs. Shands was returning to her home from Kansas City in a motor car at 6:30 o'clock she was stopped by a negro. Leveling a revolver at her, the negro climbed on the running board of Mrs. Shands' automobile as she turned the machine into a lonely highway which leads from the State road to her husband's farm.

"Give me your money," the negro demanded.

Mrs. Shands handed over her pocketbook. "Drive back toward Raytown," the negro ordered, and Mrs. Shands turned the machine around and started to drive toward that town.

The negro became nervous as motor cars passed the Shands machine, and finally ordered the woman to stop down. He then alighted, and after ordering Mrs. Shands to turn the machine around, fled into underbrush at the roadside.

Mrs. Shands drove to her home and notified her husband, who immediately telephoned to others of the robbery.

A group of more than a score of farmers was formed immediately, and men armed with shotguns, rifles, revolvers and clubs began scouring the countryside. William Fountain, a neighbor of the Shands family, while searching cornfield nearby where the negro left the motor car, noticed a negro walking east on the highway.

Hiding in underbrush at the roadside, Fountain cocked his shotgun and called to the man to halt. The negro attempted to draw one of two revolvers he carried and Fountain fired. The charge of buckshot penetrated the negro's chest.

THREE MEN ON TRIAL AFTER THEFT OF WAR SAVINGS STAMPS

Collector Testifies They Commissioned Him to Sell $780 Worth of Bank Robbery.

At the trial in Federal Court today of Charles D. Howell, Cleo E. King and Tom Farasy, charged with conspiracy and passing altered Government certificates, in connection with the theft of War Savings Stamps in the robbery of a bank at Joliet, Ill., in March, John T. Murphy, a collector, in the Title Guaranty Building, testified for the Government that the three men commissioned him to sell $780 in War Savings Stamps.

Murphy and James A. Larisey, a lawyer, who shares offices with him, also are under indictment in the case. The arrests followed the finding of the stamps in the hands of a downtown pawnbroker. Murphy testified that Howell, King and Farasy offered him a commission of 15 per cent if he would sell the stamps, and that he gave the stamps to Larisey to dispose of.

Stamps found in Murphy's desk by the police were introduced in evidence in the case on trial, although Judge Faris sustained a motion barring their use by the prosecution against Murphy because they had been taken from his desk without a search warrant and without his consent.

Counsel for the three yesterday objected to the introduction of the stamps, but were overruled by Judge Faris, who declared the objection was not timely. Witnesses were brought from the vicinity of Joliet to identify the stamps and certificates.

Mr. Noble Harrington of Joliet, 86 years old, was supported by two women stand by two attendants, and testified the stamps she had at the bank for safe keeping, and which were stolen, represented nearly all of her savings, $1,000.

BANK ROBBER BREAKS JAIL

By the Associated Press.
MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 15.—Ray Dickerson, bank robber and jail breaker, added another episode to his career yesterday when he escaped from Kilby prison, Alabama's new State penitentiary, near here. Dickerson was sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary on April 5, after he had pleaded guilty to complicity in connection with the Phoenix-Girard bank robbery which occurred in February, 1920. He escaped following the bank holdup, was traced to California and arrested in Los Angeles.

Dickerson escaped from the Los Angeles jail before an Alabama officer armed with requisition papers arrived there. He remained at liberty until March 26, this year, when he was apprehended by detectives in Birmingham.

Show Intruder to Front Door.
When Thomas Scott, a guest in the home of Oscar Maxwell, 4375 West Belle place, awakened at 4 a.m. today to find a stranger in his room, the latter remarked he had gotten into the "wrong house" and asked Scott how to get out. Scott conducted him to the front door and let him out. Later the Maxwell family discovered jewelry and clothing valued at $100 missing.

Killed in Sewer Ditch Cave-in.
KIRKSVILLE, Mo., Nov. 15.—Charles Davidson, 45 years old, was killed here last night when a city sewer ditch caved in. Other workers escaped.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Color and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by "the addition of other ingredients called 'Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound.' You simply dip a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. In morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

SAYS SHE KILLED MAN IN DEFENSE OF SELF

Mrs. Bertha Baker, 29, Takes Stand at Her Trial for Staying in Hotel.

Mrs. Bertha Baker, 29 years old, on trial in Circuit Judge Hogan's court for second degree murder for the fatal shooting, March 12, of William T. Dickson, 59, at the Arlington Hotel, 622 Morgan street, today took the stand and testified to self-defense, with an element of accident.

She went to the hotel about 5 p.m. with a man friend, she said. The friend and the proprietors of the hotel and Mrs. Harry Minard, whom some drunken men, she claimed, she took water. She said that Dickson came in, took a drink, called her into another room and asked her to stay at the hotel with him, and when she refused, beat her.

Took Friend's Revolver.

Mrs. Baker broke loose after struggling out of the room, and down the hall with him to the stairs, she testified, and ran out to the street with the intention of leaving the hotel. There she remembered she had forgotten her bag and was without carfare. She took her friend's revolver from under the carpet of his automobile, in which they had come.

When she went upstairs for the bag, she said, Dickson started for her again, she threw up her hands and the revolver went off. She claimed, she said she did not know she had shot him, but ran at once to the automobile, where her friend joined her and they went for a ride. They were arrested at 1 a.m. in a hotel at 3900 Morgan street.

Knew Dickson Before.

Samuel Jones, 719 North Garrison avenue, testified today that two years ago, when he boarded with Mrs. Baker at 2826 Easton avenue, Dickson came there once looking for her and threatening her. Mrs. Baker, on cross-examination, admitted that she had gone out with Dickson afterwards. She has two children and has been living apart from her husband. Dickson was employed by a construction company.

The chief witness for the State yesterday was Harry Minard, proprietor of the hotel, who testified that Mrs. Baker, accompanied by George T. Frank, 24, of 4256A Easton avenue, appeared at the hotel about 5:45 p.m. the day of the shooting and called Dickson out of his room. Dickson walked out and said to Mrs. Baker, "I don't want to have anything to do with you," Minard testified, and the woman then drew a revolver from her coat pocket and shot him in the forehead. With this evidence and some corroborative testimony by Minard's wife, the State rested its case.

Frank was the first witness for Mrs. Baker. He testified that he and Mrs. Baker reached the hotel at 5 p.m. and sat in a rear room with Minard and Dickson drinking moonshine whisky, sold to them by Minard. Mrs. Baker and Dickson later went to a room and quarreled, he testified, and she came out of the

THE EASIEST WAY TO END DANDRUFF

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

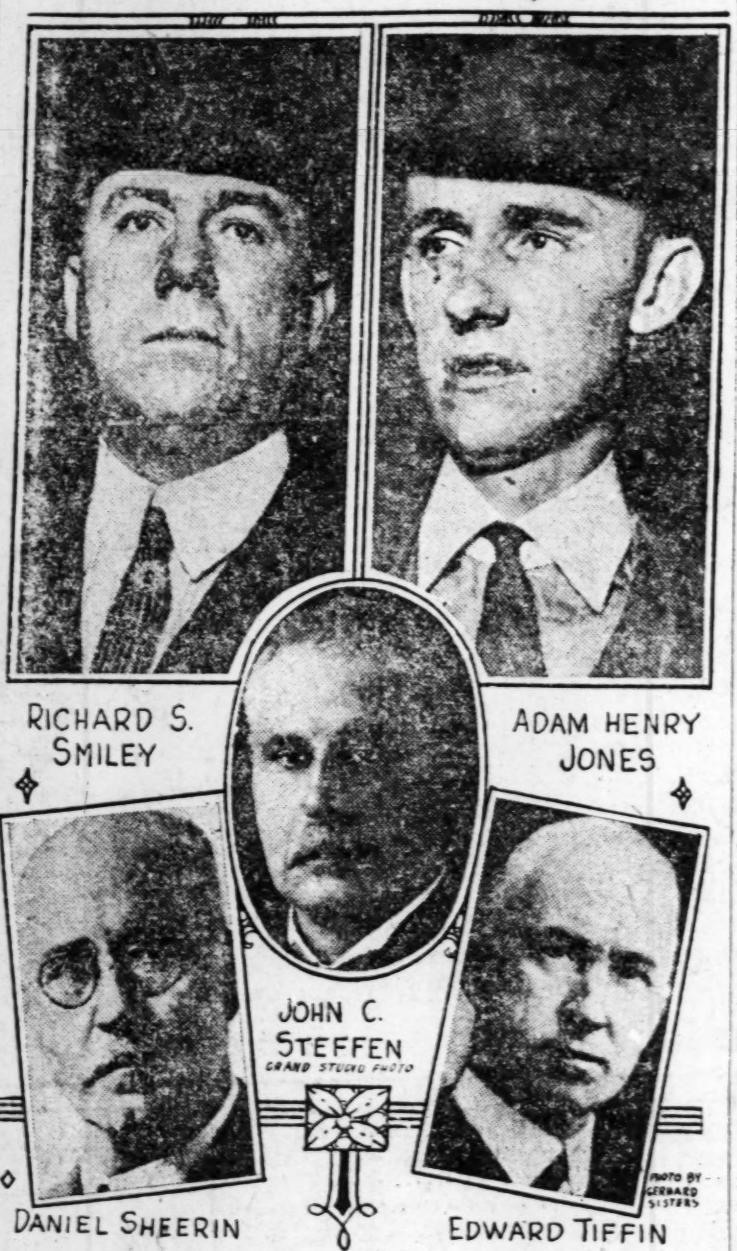

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single flake of it, and better how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

SAYS CANCER KILLS ONE WOMAN IN 8 PAST 35 HYDE IMPEACHMENT PROCEEDINGS UNLIKELY

New York Physician Declares Disease Is Fatal to One in 14 Men Past That Age.

One woman out of every eight past 35 years old and one man out of every 14 past that age die of cancer, Dr. J. E. Rush of New York, national organizer of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, said last night at an open meeting of the St. Louis Medical Society in its auditorium at 325 Pine street. The program was in connection with National Cancer Week.

Symptoms of cancer given by Dr. Rush were:

Any obstinate sore about the mouth or lips which does not heal within a week or 10 days.

Any sore on the surface of the body which tends to spread or to heal up and then break out again.

Any abnormal bleeding from any of the orifices of the body.

Long continued indigestion or dyspepsia or pains in the upper part of the abdomen.

"At the earliest sign, go to a reputable, non-advertising physician," Dr. Rush advised. "Any person who advertises a sure cure is a faker and ever worse."

Dr. Rush said that cancer caused about 100,000 deaths a year in the United States, all of which would have been preventable had recognition been had sufficiently early.

St. Louis physicians who spoke on various aspects of the problem of combating cancer were Frs. M. G. Seelig, M. T. Burrows, Ellis Fischel, Fred Taussig and Joseph Grindon.

ANOTHER WARHORSE, 20 YEARS OLD, WINS HORSE SHOW CUP

Deceive, Known as "Best Horse in the Army," Said to Be Unraveled as Jumper.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Deceive, the second old warhorse to uphold the traditions of the army at the National Horse Show, is occupying the limelight today that Moses, also representing the cavalry school at Fort Riley, Kan., enjoyed yesterday.

Deceive is a thoroughbred gelding and rivals Moses in age, being nearly 20 years old. His particular feat in the present show was the winning of the Beresford Challenge Cup, presented by Col. Lord Decies. As a jumper Deceive is said to have no superior. He was bred by A. H. Reed, Lexington, Ky., and bought by the army for $165, and has won prizes in Stockholm and Antwerp. He is known in every American military post as "the best horse in the army."

20-YEAR INTERURBAN FRANCHISE IN GRANITE CITY IS PROPOSED

Business Interests Oppose Ordinance
—Present Rights Lapse in Two Years.

A 20-year franchise for the use of Granite City streets by the Alton, Granite City and East St. Louis Traction Co., a branch of the East St. Louis Traction and Railway Co., operating cars through Granite City to Alton and Edwardsville from East St. Louis, is provided in a proposed ordinance introduced last night in the Granite City Council. The present franchise expires two years hence.

The Granite City Commercial Club and other business interests of Granite City oppose the proposed ordinance because it does not stipulate the number of cars to be operated through the city. Cars on this line at present are on an hour and two-hour schedule.

The ordinance provides for the elimination of the street cars loop at B and Twenty-first streets, and exempts the street car company from expenses of improvements which would be necessary as a result of the loop's elimination.

It also requires the company to lower its tracks on Madison avenue to the level of the street and to pay the city an annual tax of $25 on each car operated through the city.

'THE ROMANTIC AGE' IS TIMID LITTLE FANTASY

Good Deal of Wit, Not Much Enterprise of Ingenuity, Says New York Critic.

By HEYWOOD BROUN,
Drama Critic of the New York Morning World.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—If a dramatist is going to fly he really must leave the ground. A. A. Milne merely hopes in "The Romantic Age" and the result is an apologetic and timid little fantasy. He has tried to venture into fairyland on toasted wings, well buttered. And, eventually he makes a forced landing in the middle of a tea party.

There is a good deal of wit in the new play at the Comedy, but not much enterprise of ingenuity. The scheme is entirely conventional. Our heroine longs for a magic prince and then she meets a young man in the woods wearing blue and gold. But, as a matter of fact, he is merely a stock broker on his way to a masquerade and his motor has broken down.

Wearing Knickerbockers.

When next she sees him he is wearing knickerbockers and eating muffins. Milne has empowered the young man to say that this is really just as good and that the calm companionship of tranquil marriage is, in its way, fully as glamorous and romantic as any fairy tale. But it isn't.

We can see nothing in Milne's thesis but mere cowardice. He goes through all the motions of being about to embark on something fantastic and then he quite cold. He drops right being hit. He punts on the first down. Possibly Mr. Milne fears that if he really let himself go into whimsy somebody might mistake him for Barrie.

Wit we grant Milne but for us it is compromised a good deal by the fact that the playwright is so all-fired conscious of every fantastic turn of speech or plot. Again and again we waited to say, "Go on Milne, get whimsical," but he never did—or, at best just a little.

Severe Strain on Players.

And, again we are disposed to quarrel with the fact that Milne seems to believe that whatever is fantastic must also be sweet.

There is no saving bite in "The Romantic Age." Romance ought to be a stalwart thing and for that matter whimsy need not mince.

The character of the play imposes a severe strain upon the players. Several of them come through many difficulties nicely. Leslie Howard, an exceptional actor, does the best work but Margareta Gillmore also contributes much which is delightful. In the beginning it seemed to us that she was bound by the sweetness thrust upon her but in the last act she was permitted a little modifying ill temper and once she had a chance to shake off the sugar she came through a bright, vital and beautiful young person. We also liked J. M. Kerrigan and Miss Ford.

Hospitality Is Equity Players' Second Bill of Season.

"Hospitality," the Equity Players' second bill of the season, a play by Leon Cunningham, staged by Augustin Duncan, was presented at the Equity Forty-eighth Street Theater last night. Leon Cunningham began his play in the third act. His first and second acts are incredibly monotonous, dull, talky, unreal, picked up from the half dozen books which of late have marked out what is called American naturalism. Then in the third act he blazed up into one of the most glorious climaxes we have seen upon the local stage. He does it unwittingly, making of a character originally intended for a "villainess," a new Nora.

His story is one of the misunderstanding parent, in this case a mother. Not exactly a new idea in theatrical history, but at least fundamental enough to weather out a few more centuries. The mother, after the son's marriage to the wrong girl, devotes herself to forcing her son to make a choice—mother or wife. The wife in this case does the choosing. She puts on her hat and runs off to South America with her lover.

There was one reviewer in the audience who cheered her on her way. If ever a woman was married to a stupid man, or bedeviled by a mother-in-law this girl was. It was her tragedy. It was her strength that was smashed. Only by the most artificial stage craft did Cunningham succeed in pulling his curtain down to the satisfaction of those who want the obvious smile to chase away the tear. Unwittingly he has written a tragedy, and we should advise him to stand off from his work some night and study his own philosophy. As yet he does not understand it.

Miss Phyllis Phova, as the wife was intellectually superb. She understood the position of her role and understood the man she was married to. He suffered from the "ideals of marriage, as the author himself suffers from the ideal of motherhood. She was flesh and blood—her husband a virtuous glorified into a living Frank Crane.

PITTSBURG PRICE BASING PRACTICE DEFENDED BY GARY

Head of U. S. Steel Corporation Says It Has Grown Up Naturally and Normally.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The Federal Trade Commission can demonstrate that the trade custom of selling products on basis of prevailing Pittsburgh prices is due to combination in restraint of trade. E. H. Gary of the United States Steel Corporation testified before the commission today, the practice ought to be stamped out as "not only illegal but unconscionable."

"I concede that as a witness," Gary continued, "but I claim I know that the Pittsburg basing practice has grown up naturally and normally, without any combination or price fixing and in response solely to the law of supply and demand. If the commission could find any evidence of combination in it contrary to the Sherman law, the situation would be different."

Facts worth considering

When you buy a diamond you pay for its perfection, its flawlessness, its color—the quality Nature put into it.

When you buy a pair of shoes you get only the value the maker put into them but you pay an arbitrary price for that value. It isn't fixed or standardized.

A shoe may be price-built, or reputation-built, and the profit on the former may exceed that upon the latter. Good things invariably cost less in the end than inferior things.

Edwin Clapp Shoes have been built for seventy years upon a reputation that grows bigger and stronger with each succeeding year. For men and women. Try a pair.

7—Steinway Piano Used

Thursday Evening

Recital by Mrs. Stuart Chambers, soprano; Mrs. Frank Habig and Hunter Jones, pianists.

Address by Dr. Horace W. Scott, and Dr. Arthur E. Bostwick.

A musical program was given at Station K S D last night by the members of the Theta Chapter, Mu Phi Epsilon Sorority, in celebration of Founders' day of the organization. Music of the highest order filled almost two hours, and was enjoyed by the thousands of radio fans. Two pianos were in use most of the time and there was a violin quartet, vocal duets, trio quartets and choruses, but very few solos. Each of the participants gave her very best to the part she had to perform, and although most of those on the program were solo artists, all subordinated themselves to the effort for a perfect ensemble.

This feature was commented on amusingly by one of those who heard the concert. A telephone message which came in after the close of the program was from a man who knew most of the performers. "Tell those girls for me," he said, "that their concert showed darn good team work."

Two addresses were the only portion of the evening's program not given by the Mu Phi Epsilon members.

The first speaker was Dr. J. E. Rush of New York, a noted American surgeon and founder of the American Society for the Control of Cancer.

He spoke before the group the part education can play in the prevention of cancer.

One out of every eight women over 40 years old dies of cancer, he said, and one out of every 14 men. Most of these deaths are preventable if the person having the disease obtains medical attention in the early stages of the affection. Cancer is the third largest cause of death now, he stated, causing from 90,000 to 100,000 deaths each year.

The other speaker was Vane G. Gibson of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

He spoke of the efforts being made by the Department of Agriculture to assist in the profitable marketing of farm produce by maintaining a crop and market news service for farmers.

He describes this service telling how the facts are obtained and how the news is disseminated to the localities where it is wanted. Lensed wires daily and weekly bulletins, and monthly reports are the machinery of the news service, he said.

OBERRAMMERSAU NEEDS $27,500

By the Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Financial aid for the citizens of Oberammergau is sought in a letter from Wilhelm Rutz, Burgomaster of the Bavarian community, and published today in the Chicago Tribune. The emergency needs of the villagers can be cared for with $27,500, Burgomaster Rutz said.

Burgomaster Rutz pointed out that the citizens of Oberammergau had refused a $1,000,000 offer.

An American motion picture company to film the Passion Play.

"In refusing to sell our play to an American film company for $1,000,000 we made a sacrifice demanded by loyalty to the vow made to our fathers," he wrote.

BENJAMIN WILL PROTEST FILED IN BEHALF OF CARUSO'S WIDOW

Contesting of Document Begun in Effort to Prevent Probating.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Contesting of the will of the late Park Benjamin began yesterday when attorney for the children protested against probate of the document on the ground it was drawn while their father was unduly influenced by Anna Bolchi, his chief beneficiary.

The protest was filed in behalf of Dorothy B. Caruso, widow of the late Enrico Caruso; Park Benjamin Jr., Pomeny Park Benjamin, Gladys B. Goddard and Marjorie B. Glenny. Denying that Miss Bolchi, known as the adopted daughter of Benjamin, is in any way an heir or next of kin, or that she is a duly adopted member of the family, the children assert she is improperly described as "Anna Bolchi Benjamin" in her petition for probate of the will.

The will directed that the children receive a dollar each, charging they had been undutiful and ungrateful and describing them as "parasites." Miss Bolchi was called "Anna Bolchi," and was highly praised as an adopted daughter who had lavished filial devotion upon him in his last years.

MAN, FOUND BEATEN, SAYS HE NEVER BEFORE SAW ASSAILANT

He Is Held at City Hospital—Discovered in Merchants' Exchange Building Hallway.

Harry Bartlett, 36 years old, a collector, of 1329 Temple place, found badly beaten and unconscious about 7 p. m. yesterday in a hallway on the third floor of the Merchants' Exchange Building, today told police he had been bludgeoned by a man he never had seen before.

The assailant smilingly remarked, "Oh, yes, I'm drunk," before tickling him with a billy, Bartlett declared. Last night the toddle police he could recall nothing about the assailant. He is held at City Hospital pending investigation.

Bartlett, with his scalp cut and face bruised, was found by Robert Powers, clerk in an office on the third floor. Powers said he heard an argument between two men a few minutes before, and heard a blow struck. Bartlett did not regain consciousness for an hour.

He went to the building to wash his hands before going to a theater, Bartlett said.

RECORD ARGENTINE WHEAT CROP

Coming Yield Expected to Be $215, $20,000 Bushels.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Argentina's 1912-13 wheat crop probably will be a record production for that country, according to estimates received yesterday by the Department of Agriculture from the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome, which forecast a harvest of 215,320,000 bushels, compared with 180,641,000 of last year. The acreage this year is 15,681,000, compared with 13,827,000 last year.

A large crop of oats, probably a record one, also is being grown in Argentina. The first forecast places it at 49,600,000 bushels upon 2,118,000 acres, compared with a production of 32,973,000 bushels upon 2,105,000 acres last year. This year's flaxseed crop in Argentina, the world's largest grower of that product, is forecast at 60,270,000 bushels, almost double the crop of last year and probably the largest ever grown.

FEDERAL LIQUOR INDICTMENT

44 Persons Named at Chicago on Smuggling Charge.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Forty-four persons were named in an indictment voted against alleged operators of a secret whisky route between New Orleans and Chicago, returned by the Federal grand jury yesterday. Most of those named are Chicago employees of the Illinois Central Railroad.

According to Edwin L. Weil, assistant United States Attorney, who obtained the indictment, more than 100 cases of whisky weekly were smuggled into Chicago from New Orleans.

VISITOR LOSES $90 AND VALISE

Thief Takes Wallet in Barber Shop and Gets Valise With Check.

Frank Newman, theatrical manager of Kansas City, a guest at the Hotel Statler, placed his coat on a hanger in the barber shop at the hotel yesterday while being shaved. When he was ready to depart he missed a wallet containing $90, railroad transportation back to Kansas City and a check for a grip at Union Station.

Detectives, who went to the barbershop to wait for the thief, learned that a man had called with the check for the grip a half hour before and had taken it with him. It contained clothing and articles valued at $250.

11 PERSONS REPORTED DROWNED

Launch Said to Have Overturned in Canada.

QUEBEC, Nov. 15.—A dispatch to Quebec from Béginia on the north shore of the St. Lawrence reported the drowning of 11 persons in a lake or Shelton Bay River, 30 miles from the seashore.

The accident occurred Monday night when a gasoline launch containing 11 passengers was sunk and all the passengers perished, according to the meager details which have reached Béginia. Among the passengers was the Rev. Father Teller, a missionary, who formerly was stationed at Béginia. The dispatch said the boat and its occupants had not yet been found.

GOAL COMMISSION
AIMS OUTLINED BY
T. R. MARSHALL

Former Vice President Declares Body Intends to Bare Truth About All Sides of Industry.

PEACE BASED ON JUSTICE HOPED FOR

Would Repeal All Laws and Enact Ten Commandments and Golden Rule in Their Place, He Says.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 15.—Thomas R. Marshall, former Vice President, would repeal all laws and ease in their place the Ten Commandments and the golden rule and rely for their enforcement upon the conscience of the American people," he told the Bankers Club of Detroit in an address here last night.

Marshall discussed at length the aims of the Federal Fact-Finding Commission, recently organized for an investigation of the coal industry, declaring the establishment of a permanent peace based on justice was sought by the commission.

"Every business question has its public side, and Americans can't be ruled upon," he said, "to adjust their business grievances on the principle of organized self-control" and in a manner that governmental interference will be unnecessary.

His eagerness to speak and to write is further enhanced by the fact that, in his own words, it was here that, 50 years ago, he served his "apprenticeship to democracy."

Program in America.

Clemenceau's program in America is largely in the hands of E. M. House, for whom, with B. M. Baruch, he holds a high affection. So far as House has completed this program it runs about as follows:

Clemenceau will arrive Nov. 18 and will stop at the home of Charles Dana Gibson, 127 East Seventy-third street.

On Monday, Nov. 19, the World will give in his honor a private luncheon at the Ritz-Carlton, the guests including the proprietors and editors of New York City and certain other newspapers. At 5 o'clock that afternoon he will attend a reception by the Franco-American Society at the home of Thomas W. Lamont.

Visit to Brooklyn.

On Tuesday, Nov. 20, Clemenceau will deliver his first address at the Metropolitan Opera House under the auspices of the Council of Foreign Relations. Former Ambassador John W. Davis will preside at this meeting, with former Secretary of State Elihu Root beside him on the platform.

Organized self-control does not mean that if people do not voluntarily govern themselves, Government will cease. Government of some kind will never cease to be among this people, and the existing government, if needful, will justify itself by force of arms.

"I assume that, in view of the relations I have to the coal fact-finding commission, you have more than idle curiosity to know the attitude of the commission.

Have No Political Fortune.

"It has neither thoughts nor purpose of being awed by influence or bought by gain. Its members have no political fortunes to serve, and their private welfare can be affected but slightly by whatever may happen." It entitles no malice, envy, or ill-will against a soul on earth, purposes in the finding of facts, begin the investigation under the assumption that all the contending forces have a sincere desire to assist in ascertaining the truth about every question entering into and every condition surrounding the business. It will not purpose to be suspicious or jealous, but it does intend that it shall not be treated as though it were a court of law, which parties litigate are apportioned to it, and each according to cast of vote upon the other. It has been promised, and so far believes, that it will receive the honest assistance of both operator and miner in the effort to ascertain the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the whole, hewing to the line, let the world see where they may.

Friendlier Feeling Sought.

"Out of assistance of this kind, it will be given, as the weeks go by and the facts develop, it hopes to promote a friendlier feeling than has existed between the operators and the miners. This is a great economic question, but is more than a great patriotic question.

There is a public side to this question, in all our calmer moments, not actuated by greed or hatred. The labor of the republic demands his business as exclusive in its relations to the welfare of the nation. Democracy spells out private ownership—it also public welfare, and the public in all of its busi-

CLEMENCEAU, DURING VISIT, TO WRITE OF WORLD AFFAIRS AND WAR FOR POST-DISPATCH

"Tiger" Heretofore Has Steadfastly Declined to Set Down His Experiences in Portentous Events of Closing Periods of Conflict.

By Leased Wire From the New York Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Under the terms of a contract completed shortly before he sailed from France, Georges Clemenceau will write during his stay in the United States exclusively for the New York World and the Post-Dispatch and the 68 newspapers comprising the North American Newspaper Alliance.

The "Tiger" of France will deliver three or four public addresses during his visit to America, but perhaps the most important part of his contribution to the discussion of the subject he has chosen for consideration will be made in six or more articles on which he has been busy for the past five weeks. In these articles he will not only express his views on various international matters, but will make public for the first time some other matters dealing with the world which demand the questions growing out of it.

Or Journalistic Importance.

This contract with Clemenceau is of great journalistic importance because he has heretofore steadfastly declined to write about the portentous affairs in which he participated during the closing periods of the war and throughout the era of peace negotiations. Great sums have been offered for his memoirs, but he has refused them all.

Through the medium of his contract with the World he will reveal, however, many of these matters of historical and immediate interest.

One of the direct motives for entering into this agreement was the fact that the World, last June, first appealed to him the desirability of coming to America. He had, too, the background of his popularity, will give his words peculiar vitality.

To Speak in Washington.

During his stay in Washington he will deliver an address on Dec. 8, before the International Chautauqua League, of which President Harding is honorary president. Mr. Harding will preside at this meeting.

From Washington, Clemenceau will go to Baltimore, where he will be the guest over Sunday, Dec. 10, of John W. Bok.

From Baltimore he will go to Annapolis to visit the United States Naval Academy at the invitation of Admiral Wilson, the superintendent.

On Monday, Dec. 11, he will go to Philadelphia to deliver an address before the Academy of Music Forum as the guest of a committee headed by Edward W. Bok.

On Tuesday, Dec. 12, he will be the guest of the Society for Devastated France at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

Plans to Start Home Dec. 13.

His present plan is to start his homeward journey on the steamship France on Dec. 13.

During his travels Clemenceau will occupy the private car of Charles M. Schwab of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

Clemenceau has established an inflexible rule that during his stay in this country he will be a guest at neither luncheons nor dinners. He will accept no degrees. He probably will go to receptions only when they are of an official nature.

Will not depart from his customary regime, except under unusual conditions, of going to bed at 8 o'clock in the evening and rising about 5. Most of his work is done during the early morning.

With Clemenceau will travel Ferdinand Tschudy chief of the Paris Bureau of the World and Post-Dispatch, through whom the first suggestion of the visit to the United States was extended. Tschudy will accompany "The Tiger" on his journeys in America, remaining with him until he has returned to Paris.

Wednesday, Nov. 22, Clemenceau

will have much to do with the ability of the commission to promote a friendlier feeling between the operator and the miner. Perhaps if we preach the golden rule long enough here and there a man may be found who will catch the spirit of it as the perfect democracy and will begin to live it.

Women Suffrage Problem Argued in French Senate

Decrease of Masculine Authority Fared as Result of Equal Rights at Polls.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—"Votes for women" disturbed the Senate's calm again yesterday before packed galleries, the women's supporters having the floor first.

Senator Gourjou declared:

"The hour has come for us no longer to be afraid of women," a remark which made even the gravest smile. Five Premiers—Millerand, Poincaré, Briand, Painlevé and Viviani—asserted that it had advocated woman suffrage, and he added:

"Women are no soldiers, but maternity service is quite as valuable as military service."

Senator Labroue took the responsibility of opposing the movement.

"Woman is already closely associated with man's work," he said. "To earn money woman rejects maternity; she deserts the role for which nature created her."

This brought forth loud applause, and the Senator continued:

"Feminism will kill femininity; the vote of women would diminish the authority of husbands and fathers. We might well fear that man might no longer care to be found at home; he could no longer direct."

This last phrase greatly pleased the older legislators, and Labroue discussed the theme further, saying, in conclusion:

"It will be an honor for our country to have kept women in her sphere of family, art and duty."

Viviani, upon whom the women counted as their strongest defender, pleaded illness, and it is said that he may not speak for them.

Strike Cost U. S. $1,250,000.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Activities of the Government in the railway shopmen's strike of last summer cost upwards of $1,250,000, according to an estimate by actuaries of the Department of Justice.

The Senate is not expected to insist upon the former reservations to the Washington agreement.

In all our calmer moments, not actuated by greed or hatred, the labor of the republic demands his business as exclusive in its relations to the welfare of the nation. Democracy spells out private ownership—it also public welfare, and the public in all of its busi-

I hold that the policy of the worker to see what the minimum he can do of work and still hold down his job is wrong," says Mr. John D. Rockefeller Jr. "It is wrong, but deep in the heart of us all there has been the fear of ridicule, the dread of being called—not of being—an any man. That may be one of the reasons why there are more people who would rather get more salary than they deserve than deserve more salary than they get.

Why it shouldn't be a greater source of pride to give three times the value of what you are paid than to be paid three times the value of your work is hard to understand, except on the ground of that fear—a fear founded not on pride but on vanity.

"Our names, however," says the said advertisement of Brokaw Bros., "remain moderate."

It may interest Mr. Robert J. Benchley and Mrs. Dorothy Parker to know that the lines about "save up your money and pile up your rocks" recited by Richelle in "Nero" at the Punch and Judy Theater, the other hand, has up-and-downed as though the troublesome ruling of Mr. American Attorney-General, had word of. Of course the matter cannot be put out the clause, and we are not, the port of New York jammed bounded ships of an unregenerate main issue remains still unsolved. The main issue of prohibition has been extended antic by edict, but the edict is so far kept by the American vessel George which has sailed (despite the vigorous one passenger who wanted his passage) without a bar. The Cunarder old stuff. At least so writes R. H. M. "About the time Blaine was running for President," he says, "I made the acquaintance of the delightful ditty. This team of Benchley and Parker are fakers, it dawns upon us. Richelle, Richelle, has two other lines, one beginning: "To think of it, we are not even much impressed by the gait of Lillian as described by Bennett. We prefer more walking and less swimming. Her smile is quite spoiled for us by the information that she knew all about it. We can picture her waiting for just the proper moment to turn it on.

Gracilista, the Spanish dancer, in "Better Times" at the Hippodrome, finds the atmosphere of Joseph Herkheimer's "The Bright Shawl" surprisingly accurate.

"In my opinion," she writes, "Mr. Hergesheimer has created a story and a set of characters who are much closer to Latin-American life than any other story I have known. My mother was a Spanish dancer who had appeared in all the South American countries and in Cuba. She has told me stories of plotting and counter-plotting of her time that make what Mr. Hergesheimer has written sound entirely plausible to me.

It seems to us a mistake to assume that "Lillian" must have been a hasty job. The ease of the book by no means indicates that it was produced without pains. Indeed, we should argue just the reverse. Unquestionably this is not one of Bennett's major novels, but it is an alert, observant, interesting and unified story. Its limitations lie in the fact that Lillian herself is not very important. And yet she is numerous.

"Don't buy an automobile unless you can afford it" and "Save up your pennies" are some of the things Mr. Rockefeler counseled. Why not Richelle utter these sentiments, Mr. Benchley and Mrs. Parker?

Save up your pennies and don't buy a car. And you'll always have money, like J. D. R.

It Seems to Me

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—Arnold Bennett's "Lillian" (Doran) seems to have been written as an answer to Swinerton's "Coquette." Mr. Bennett is in favor of a minimum wage for sin. We feel quite sure that his new novel will be criticized as giving aid and comfort to immorality, but to us it seems no more than a truthful statement of the evident fact that sinners often do extremely well.

Is there success necessarily merely material? The world has been pretty bad in arranging the synchronization of sin with Arnold Bennett's heroine, roses into vice without much trepidation and moves through it to respectability with no more than a few passing tumults. It seems to us that such a book promotes morality. If virtue is backed by nothing more than the belief that it is the best policy right conduct depends on an illusion which sooner or later will be tumbled down in the mind of any keen observer. We shall have to look for some other reason.

The story of the adventures of Lillian is interesting, but Mr. Bennett has stopped far short of making her glamourous. He insists rather frequently upon her beauty, but in this respect his book carried little conviction to us. She seemed rather more like a woman than usual to us, and we feel certain that it must have shown in her face. And then the author gives the distinct impression that she illowed.

"She knew a good deal about herself," writes Bennett. "Proudly she reflected, amid her blushes, upon the image of her face and hair—the eyes that matched her hair, the perfectly formed ears, the softness of the chin and the firmness of the nose, the unchallengeable complexion, the dazzling teeth. She was simple enough to be somewhat apologetic about the largeness of her mouth, unaware that a man of experience flees from a small rosebud mouth as from the devil, and that a large mouth is the certain sign of good will and understanding in woman. She was apologetic, too, about the cragginess of her neck, and with better reason. But the wrists and the ankles, the legs, the shoulders, the swelling of the hips, the truly astounding high, firm and abundant bosom! Beyond criticism! And she walked beautifully, throwing back her shoulders, and so emphasizing the line of the waist at the back. She walked with her legs and hips, and the body swam forward above them. She had observed the effect thousands of times in street mirrors. The girls all admitted that she walked uniquely. Then, further, she had a smile (rarely used) which would intensify in the most extraordinary way the beauty of her face, lighting it, electrifying the eyes, radiating charm that entranced. She knew that also."

Mr. Bennett is far too dogmatic in saying "beyond criticism!" Lillian seems to us exactly the sort of girl who would be cast for the Spirit of Personal Liberty in the allegorical finale of a burlesque show. Evidence of her materiality from Mr. Bennett in the philosophy of beauty. To us there is no glamour in the adjective "extraordinary." And not much in "abundant." We believe that we should not like to be astounded.

Of course, Mr. Bennett has an unassailable right to his own standards, but we have a suspicion that he was unusually precocious when he saw his first Christmas pantomime in London and that some stalwart British showgirl caught more of his infantile attention than she deserved and thereby marked him for life.

Come to think of it, we are not even much impressed by the gait of Lillian as described by Bennett. We prefer more walking and less swimming. Her smile is quite spoiled for us by the information that she knew all about it. We can picture her waiting for just the proper moment to turn it on.

MISS ANNIE LAURIE BLOODWORTH, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bloodworth of the Hamilton Hotel, will become the bride at 8:30 o'clock this evening of Francois Benoist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Benoist of 4622 Pershing avenue. Glen Echo Country Club, the scene of the nuptials, will be decorated with masses of pink roses. In the case of the United States versus the Rest of the World, distance has played a very great role, and most of the time it has been the faithful ally of the American people.

Consider the advantages of 3000 miles of water between Boston and London in the eighteenth century. Of course, the colonists were colonists and, as well-behaved subjects of the crown, they must write to London and ask permission to do this and that and the other thing. But between writing a letter and saying, "Please your majesty, may I do so and so?" waiting for an answer there is a great difference, and it is not merely a difference of time. Distance changes the point of view of the humble author of the epistle. He thinks, well, my letter has gone. I will just take a chance and go ahead and then, when the answer is not what I expect, I will say, "I am sorry," and by the time my apology reaches England the moon may have fallen into the ocean and everything will be all right."

The King of England and his Ministers hardly knew where Fort le Boeuf was. But the English colonists, who understood and appreciated the importance of this strategic point, which controlled the Ohio Valley, did not rest quietly upon their oars when they heard that Gov. Duquesne of Canada had sent an army of a thousand Frenchmen to take definite possession of this rich region. And the Governor of Virginia by name of Dinwiddie, sent a young surveyor by the name of George Washington to ask the French commander what this trespassing upon Virginia territory meant and to admonish him to depart with the utmost speed. The French commander was very civil and received the communication with a polite bow. Unfortunately, he must send such highly important documents to his master, the Governor-General of Canada, and it would take time to get an answer. Perhaps Monsieur Georges would wait. M. Georges would not wait. He returned at once, going eastward through the wilderness. But before he reached home he met a company of fellow-Virginians who were going to build a fortress on the spot where the Allegheny River and the Monongahela River met. He wished them good luck and continued his voyage.

As for the fort builders, they actually built a handsome stockade. Then the French descended upon them, defeated them, took away their wooden walls, strengthened them, increased them, made them well-nigh impregnable against sudden attack and, to crown their labors, called the place Fort Duquesne as a token of loyal admiration for their Commander in Chief, the almighty Governor of Canada.

To be continued tomorrow.

AMERICAN HISTORY FOR

DISTANCE according to the poets, lends enchantment. It also (according to our own experience) adds considerably to the sum total of human misunderstandings. And if anyone doubts this statement, let him try to write and draw a daily feature for a syndicate which is a thousand miles away from the place where the author and artist consumes his matutinal ham and eggs.

ELECTION RETURNS

Claims of Anti-Saloon League and Prohibition Opponents Conflicting, With Truth Between the Two.

FIGHT HAS BECOME MORE INTENSIVE

Wets Have Grown More Vocal and Active, and Are Finally Organizing for Bitter Contest.

By DAVID LAWRENCE,
Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1921.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Is there any hope for beer and light wines? Did last week's election help the "wets" or the "drys," and when can the next move on either side be expected—and what will come of it?

These questions have been asked a thousand times since the two national organizations fighting for and opposed to prohibition began their series of conflicting claims.

The truth lies between the two as usual. Each side can present convincing figures to show that Congress is still dry or will be wet as the case may be. But when one finds each side claiming some of the same men as being wet and dry and when the doubtful or non-voting group is examined and when some of the wavering ones are canvassed, the conclusion is inescapable that nothing is definite till the roll is called and that the prohibition issue will be decided in the next Congress by an opportune block which will wait to see which way the cat jumps.

May Be Switched.

In other words, there are scores of members of Congress who have voted "dry" who will be tempted to switch to the other side if the National Association Opposed to Prohibition which is trying to parallel the work of the Anti-Saloon League can show that the wet votes in their respective districts will be sufficient to elect those members next time.

The fight has become more intense. After permitting the Anti-Saloon League several years start, the National Association Opposed to Prohibition is finally getting under way with state organizations, speakers and vote solicitors in the hope that they can swing a political club just as the Anti-Saloon League has done.

On the face of the last election returns, however, the case looks better for the dry than it does for the wet. New Jersey, New York, Massachusetts and Maryland have always been considered wet states. They stayed wet. Ohio has been dry and stayed dry by defeating the wet amendment. California, however, the wine growing state which has always been thought wet, turned out to be dry, defeating the referendum. To this the wets answer that their organization in that state was too young to be effective, and that there will be a "next time."

What Illinois Vote Meant.

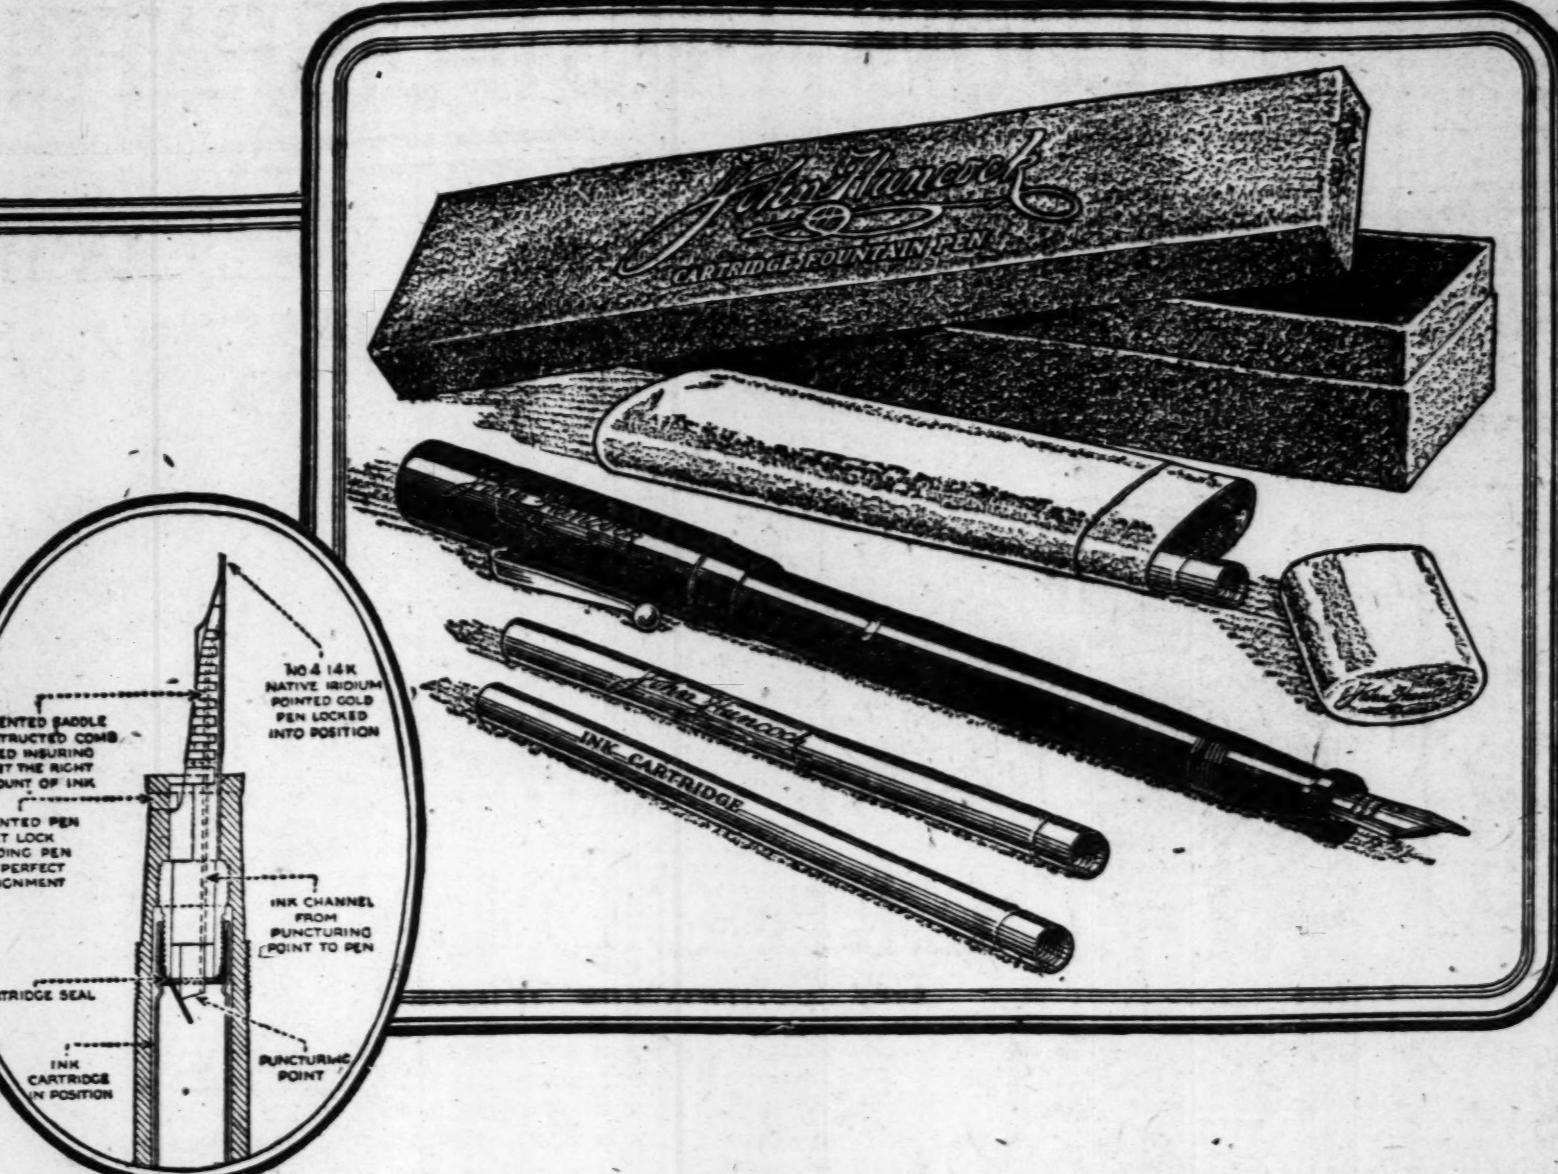

In Illinois you can take your choice as to what the election meant. The straw vote for 2.75 beer was not opposed by the drys at the polls—let least it is claimed that the drys were asked not to vote at all so as to see if the wets could muster a majority of the votes cast. Some of the drys voted anyhow but the organizations contend they made no fight. Out of 2,000,000 votes cast, 800,000 were in favor of the beer amendment.

What has the fountain pen been doing all this while?

It is true that ingenious features have been brought out from time to time.

The public bought generously—always looking for improvement.

But go into the offices and homes of this country—rummage out all the discarded fountain pens—and you see a nation of fountain pen users still unsatisfied.

The Biggest Piece of Fountain Pen News in over Forty Years

THE first fountain pen appeared on the American market about 1880

About this time also the typewriter was coming into practical use.

Scarcely a year passed that some fundamental improvement wasn't made in the typewriter. Until the typewriter of today is as far advanced over the typewriter of 1880 as could be imagined.

What has the fountain pen been doing all this while?

It is true that ingenious features have been brought out from time to time.

The public bought generously—always looking for improvement.

But go into the offices and homes of this country—rummage out all the discarded fountain pens—and you see a nation of fountain pen users still unsatisfied.

Certainly the makers of the John Hancock Cartridge Pen had plenty of guidance in what not to do when they started out to make a better writing instrument.

So they swept aside all the old makeshift ideas—and began with a new principle.

A basic new approach of soundness and precision.

A principle that made writing certain from the touch of pen to paper till every drop of ink was gone.

A principle that wiped out leaking, blotting, sweating—every experience that has always baffled a man when he picked up a fountain pen to write.

Engineering may be the last thing any one would think of in relation to a fountain pen.

But the John Hancock Pen was developed by an engineer—who approached the problem in the spirit of science rather than of commerce.

The engineer thinks in terms of precision. The John Hancock Pen is the first fountain pen ever made with precision gauges—tested and inspected every step of the way.

To the scientific mind—writing means precise supply of ink to the pen. Always enough—not ever too much.

So the John Hancock Ink Cartridge was developed. A 22,000 word supply of liquid ink in a sealed metallic cartridge. Enough ink to last the typical user three to six months in a flat, compact case that takes up about the same pocket room as a cigar.

And now mark what happens.

The Ink Cartridge, developed for better writing, does away with muzzle loading, ink squirting and ink sucking forever.

It seals tight to the pen. It confines the ink to the writing channel—not loose in the body of the pen.

So never again can there be the annoyance of leakage or sweating.

Will you not read the pertinent questions and answers at the right?

Questions You'd Naturally Ask about the John Hancock Pen

1 Does the John Hancock make writing easier?

Yes. And more certain. Easier because a continuous, uniform supply of fresh ink flows as needed to the writing point. More certain because the patented saddle constructed comb feed prevents clogging as well as flooding. The John Hancock Pen weighs the same as any other pen of the same size. Perfect balance of design promotes easy and tireless writing.

2 Is it easy to fill?

Yes. Filled in 3 seconds. A tightly sealed metal cartridge of fluid ink is slipped into the barrel and given one full turn. This punctures the ink cartridge, the barrel cap is replaced and the pen is ready to write. No fiddling with medicine droppers, ink bottles, suction pumps or inhaling devices. No rubber sac, levers or springs.

3 Will the John Hancock clog?

No. It is clog-proof. The special John Hancock ink is manufactured by us from a new formula and can be obtained only in John Hancock Ink Cartridges. It is the finest writing fluid made—a marked advance over the commercial fluids in common use today. The ink is kept in perfect condition—hermetically sealed—in the cartridges until used. No evaporation. Hence no sediment. Hence no clogging or balking, or sluggish, muddy ink.

4 Will it leak?

No. Safe in the pocket, desk, traveling bag and while writing. Extra thick barrel walls. Ventilated ends—air passes between barrel and barrel wall. Ink can't seep through to fingers or clothing. Special ink-tight pen cap. All joints threaded—cannot jam or strip. Ink cartridge is sealed to pen before it is punctured—ink cannot leak into barrel.

5 How much ink does it hold?

25% to 100% more ink than any other fountain pen of the same size. Each cartridge holds enough ink to write your signature over ten thousand times. Three cartridges will last the average user from three to six months.

6 Is the John Hancock durable?

Yes. Made to last a lifetime—a permanent pen. Simple in mechanism. Nothing to break under ordinary usage. Made of the best hard rubber, machined to watchmaker's precision and workmanship.

7 How about the pen point?

A 14k gold nib. Extra weight, first grade native iridium point especially tested for smoothness. Locked in permanent alignment. Designed and made exclusively for the John Hancock Pen. Choice of fine, medium, coarse, stub and special nibs to fit everyone of hand.

8 Can I be sure of getting a good John Hancock?

Getting a good John Hancock is the simplest thing in the world. Walk up to the counter and pick up any pen with the point you want. Guaranteed to be a perfect pen—a perfect writer. The John Hancock Pen is made on engineering principles and with watchmaker's precision inside and out. You can't get a bad John Hancock.

To all the John Hancock Pen dealers—please have one of the little Jade Rings, also an ink cartridge and the pen, given one gift. This combination is unique. The combination is high, and some companies come with such pens. A dozen of these additional cartridges, 25¢.

WOMAN HELD FOR RADIO FRAUD

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Mrs. Myra Cleveland Harriet Sims, who claims relationship with the late President Cleveland and Rear Admiral Sims, U.S.N., retired, is held in $7500 bail for examination Nov. 20 on a charge of fraud.

She was arrested on the complaint of Mrs. Emily Thompson, who said she and her sister gave the woman $4000 for the purchase of stock in a radio corporation.

'SNIFFING' VISIT PAID TO NEW GARBAGE PLANT

Officials Favorably Impressed With Claims That Incinerating System Is Odorless.

The city garbage incinerating plant, completed this week at the foot of Chouteau avenue, was the object of a "sniffing" visit yesterday afternoon by members of the Board of Public Service and the Public Utilities Committee of the Board of Aldermen.

After a complete tour of the plant, without a gasp for fresh air, they were favorably impressed with the claims of the contractors and engineers that the new disposal plant is odorless.

Apparently everything about the garage, including the odor, is burned. Powerful suction fans draw the air from the enclosed garbage bins, the interior of the building and inward at all openings, such as windows and doors, and force it through the furnaces, where the heat ranges from 1400 to 2200 degrees.

No Chance to Escape.

The odor, the engineers say, has no chance to escape from the building.

The incinerator was built at a cost of $70,000 and has a capacity of 80 tons of garbage each 24 hours. Three other such plants are planned by the Board of Public Service, but construction of them was delayed pending a test of the "odorless" features of the Chouteau avenue plant. An appropriation of $70,000 has been approved for a West End plant, near King's highway and Eager road. It is proposed to put a third plant in South St. Louis, near the workhouse, and a fourth in North St. Louis.

Disposal costs will be materially decreased by the incinerating system, according to Director Fisk of the Department of Streets and Sewers. Garbage now is hauled to barges near the foot of Chouteau avenue and towed 40 miles down the river to large hog farms on Ames Island.

The cost of collection in the city averages $4 a ton, under the present long-haul system, Fisk said, and the barge contractor receives $1.60 a ton for hauling it down the river. Fisk said the cost of burning the garbage in incinerators is 70 cents a ton. Use of tractors and trains of trailers, instead of horse-drawn wagons, is planned to reduce the collection cost.

230 Tons Collected Daily.
Barges will remain in use until the additional plants are built, he said, as the daily collection now averages 230 tons and this amount is greatly increased in the spring and summer.

Operation of the plant is simple. The wagons arriving with garbage move up a long incline to the third floor of the building, where the garbage is dumped through floor traps into enclosed steel bins on the second floor. Air suction at these traps draws the odor-laden air toward the furnaces. The garbage drops from the bins to an incline feeding into the furnaces on the first floor, being dried out by the intense heat as it moves along the incline. The garbage is the chief fuel for the furnace fires.

The engineers estimate 100 pounds of coal are burned with each ton of garbage, giving a low fuel expense. A combustion chamber, where a heat of 2200 degrees is maintained, will be used for disposal of the bodies of animals.

The plant was installed by the Chicago Incinerator Co. It will operate 24 hours a day, with three crews of five men each.

THE PROBLEM OF CHINA, by Bertrand Russell. (The Century Co.)

In the latter part of the eighteenth century a British Ambassador arrived in China to request further trade facilities. The answer of the Emperor Chien Lung admits that the British memorial is cast in terms which reveal a "respectful humility that is highly praiseworthy," but declares that there was "no need to import the manufactures of outside barbarians," since the Celestial Empire possessed all things in abundance.

Every progress in civilization has its peculiar drawback. If ours is bedeviled by the driving desire for efficiency, that of the Chinese is curbed by the tyranny of ancient custom. Ancestor worship, founded in wholly admirable strength of national feeling, has militated against public spirit and erected many a barrier to necessary reconstruction. However, to Bertrand Russell, this feature of the Confucian system seems preferable to European national standards. Filial piety, even when carried to excess, is less harmful than Western patriotism. Both err in inculcating duties to a certain portion of mankind to the practical exclusion of the rest. But patriotism directs one's loyalty to a fighting unit, while filial piety does not. If the Chinese were to adopt the Western type of nationalism, they would, as soon as they had made themselves safe against foreign aggression, embark upon aggression on their own account. It is not impossible, of course, for China to join in the madness of the great military nations. If she does, she will perish like the rest. But Bertrand Russell sees a hope that in spite of a temporary illness upon Chinese civilization from the forced contact and contamination with the raving West, the Chinese will be able to produce a very splendid result, combining European and American merits with theirs; that China will thus play the part for which she is fitted and devote the freedom she achieves to science and art and the inauguration of a better economic system.

Another Literary Crime.

IHAD never read "Robinson Crusoe" until just the other day, though I have always felt perfectly familiar with a certain typical picture of Crusoe, in his fur coat and cap, bending over the footprints in the sand.

As a child, I cared little for pure adventure stories, but, when I read this book recently, I found it delightful and easy reading.

Perhaps I never would have read "Robinson Crusoe" if I had not seen several chapters of the serial motion picture, now being shown at local theaters, under that name. The picture was so very poor that it caused me to wonder how such a sensuous melodrama could ever have been ranked as a children's classic. So I purchased a copy of the book and read it.

The plot of the picture touched that of the book in scarcely four or five places. The rest of the 18 serial chapters were made up of horrible diversities, the product of small-minded mercenary.

It is a crime to allow this motion picture to exist in this distorted form. The original story is full enough of dramatic incident; though, perhaps, the plot could not be drawn out into an 18 chapter serial without considerable repetition and padding.

"The Land of Health," by Grace T. Hallock and C. E. A. Wilson. (Charles E. Merrill Co.)

Can hygiene be taught to children of 8, 9, 10 years of age? This book attempted to tell children by the system of story-telling how they may become citizens of the Land of Health by learning to obey its laws, with authors hold good title and, considering that "greatness" of character, is the selective test proclaimed by the author, puzzle in some of its inclusions and many of its exclusions. Of the two dozen "great Americans" treated, not a few have already lived down their greatness.

"The Black Phantom," by Leo E. Miller. (Charles Scribner's Sons.)

Life and adventures of Warruk in the South American jungle, and how in the end he had to reckon with Omaha, the story teller.

"Stories by Mrs. Molesworth," complied by Sidney Baldwin. With pictures by Edna Cooke. (Dutfield and Company.)

"The Six Poor Little Princesses,"

"The Cuckoo Clock," "The Blue Dwarfs," "Mary Ann Jolly," "The Red Fairies," "Carrots," and several other favorites, animate and inanimate.

"The Little Cockalorum," by Wallie Slinkin. Illustrated by Ralph Dunkleberger. (The Penn Publishing Company.)

Toni was 16 and ready for anything. He found all manner of adventure, ending in a big double surprise.

"An Old Wolf's Favorites. Animals

I Have Known," by Sir Robert Baden-Powell. (Harrington Park Press.)

The famous traveler who is the father of the Boy Scout movement gives some of his most entertaining personal anecdotes relating to various animals, wild and otherwise, and has furnished excellent pen and ink sketches for their illustration. He certainly has enjoyed some jolly friendships with panthers, elephants and other birds.

"Red-Robin," by Jane Abbott. With illustrations by Harriet Roosevelt Richards. (J. B. Lippincott Co.)

In "Red-Robin" Mrs. Abbott has made a charming collection of happy stories of young girls who have enlivened her other stories.

"Through the Cloud Mountain with Jan and the Story-Book Folk We Love," by Florence Scott Bernard. Illustrated by Gertrude Kay. (J. B. Lippincott Company.)

This is a novel and charming tale and will delight those who are familiar with the characters in the Juvenile Classics and around the interest of those who are not. Very attractively dressed.

"Winona On Her Own," by Margaret Wildemer. (J. B. Lippincott Company.)

In the interval that has elapsed since "Winona's Way," many girls have been wondering what happened to Winona next. Here is satisfaction brought to their curiosity. The illustrations are by E. Corinne Paull.

"The Hop Pickers. Girl Life in the Sixties," by Flavin Camp Canfield. (Harcourt, Brace & Co.)

A group of girls, for a vacation and to earn money, engage in picking in the hop fields. The book is a picture of the sort of girlhood our grandmothers tell us they had.

"The True Story of the United States of America, Told for Young People," by Elbridge S. Brooks. (Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co.)

Revised and extended edition of a favorite book brought strictly up to date.

"Skipper Bedelle," by Owen Johnson. With illustrations by Ernest Fuhr. (Little, Brown and Company.)

The sentimental progress of Skipper Bedelle from the urchin to the complete man of the world, traced in the happiest fashion of the author

—a primitive idea of fun-making.

These Indians of the Rio Grande Valley of New Mexico and the north central mesas of Arizona are not only superstitious and fanatical but they are hellseers in immortality of animal as well as human hearts, except when burned. If a tale ends with the death of an animal its heart goes in and kicks the winning goal

No one is ever the wiser.

"Taytay's Tales," collected and retold by Elizabeth Willis de Huff. Illustrations by Fred Kabotie and Ota Poletanoma. (Harcourt, Brace & Co.)

Taytay's Tales were collected for a little girl with an insatiable thirst for "stories." The illustrations have been sketched and painted by two Indian lads of the Hopi tribe. The dance pictures all represent real ceremonies still celebrated yearly by the Pueblo Indians of the Southwest. Taytay is the Indian word for grandfather. (Like Tata in Czechoslovak or our papa, it derives from infant speech,) and was suggested by the fact that among the red folk the grandfather is usually the one who tells the stories to the children.

"The Butterflies' Day," by W. H. Koehler. Illustrated by Hilda T. Miller. (Frederick A. Stokes Co.)

A nature study so written that it will appeal to younger readers as a fable.

"Who Is Sylvia?" by Marion Ames Taggart. Illustrated by Vera Cleere. (Doubleday, Page & Co.)

"Tall, graceful and remarkably pretty, her shining 'morning face' full of a nameless charm, radiating happiness, Sylvia Bell came down stairs and out on the piazza the morning after her twentieth birthday." We claim this very nice and attractively apparelled story as a fave.

COLLECTIONS OF STORIES.

A Child's Book of Stories, edited by P. W. Couzens.

Stories of the Sun and West of the Americas, by Mr. Hutchins. Tends itself to parody, and Mr. Paul's worked industriously to realize all the possibilities in this slender book which makes amiable fun of "If Winter Comes."

The general story outline of that best seller is followed carefully, and for each of the outstanding incidents in Mark Sabre's career a parallel is provided. This method is successful, early in the book, in evoking several laughs at Mr. Hutchinson's major eccentricities. Before long, however, it becomes tiresome, with the result that the rest of the book lapses into a bored burlesque.

The point, as a whole, loses interest because it tries to follow the original too closely, and because it is too long. The best parody consists not in burlesqued imitation of the original, but in a grasp first of all its spirit, and then the application of that spirit to material which in itself renders the result ridiculous.

Her romance, however, proved to be short-lived and when she was brought to the realization of hopes and principles wasted on a libertine, she sought relief through an attempt at suicide.

WEEKS PRAISES ARMY'S WORK ON WATERWAYS

War Secretary Discusses Transportation Problems Before Boston Chamber.

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, Nov. 15.—In an address last night before the Boston Chamber of Commerce, Secretary of War Weeks spoke with pride of the work of the Army in developing the inland waterways of the country, encouraging the utilization of water power and devising systems of flood control.

Mention was called to extensive studies of the port development of the country now being made by the Board of Rivers and Harbors. Weeks said this work was attracting enthusiastic attention among the railroads, shippers and commercial interests generally.

"The most critical points in our transportation system," he continued, "are at the terminals of transfer between land and water carriers. Because of antiquated facilities, the transfer cost is often greater than the cost of transportation over hundreds of miles by rail or ship." The Board of Rivers and Harbors is conducting a thorough investigation of terminal conditions and is giving very valuable advice to the local committees which can profit by improvement in this important respect."

On the subject of water power, Weeks said:

"It is common knowledge that one of the greatest developments ahead of us must be that of effectively utilizing our great resources in water power.

"It is necessary to harness this cheap energy, and yet to do it in such a manner as not to interfere with our navigable waterways, with the growth of our national forests, or with the public enjoyment of our national parks."

"In its second year, the Power Commission has had to study projects for proposed developments of water power in excess of 20,000,000 horse-power, or more than twice the existing power development of this country and more than the combined potential resources of Norway, Sweden, Finland and the Arctic and Baltic drainages of Russia—the principal water-power region of Europe. In two years its engineers have had to study project for development greater than double the resources of France and Italy and six times the aggregate of projects for development of resources under Federal control in the preceding 20 years.

The greatest part of this work of examination and study has fallen to the War Department."

WIDESPREAD PROSPERITY NEAR,
SAYS ROBERT M. COWIE

Robert M. Cowie, in Speech, Declares All That Is Needed Is Cool-Headedness and Confidence.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 15.—If everybody keeps their feet on the ground, widespread prosperity will soon be here. Robert M. Cowie of New York, vice president of the American Railway Express Co., declared today in a speech before the Noonday Luncheon Club.

Explaining that the business of the express company was a commercial barometer, he said its upward trend indicated that all that was needed for genuine commercial prosperity were "cool-headedness, cheerful outlook and confidence in the future," adding that every month, every week, every day showed some improvement.

From Alvin Adams, who originated the express business 30 years ago by carrying articles in a haversack bag, New York towns, Cowie said, the business grew until today the American Railway Express Co. transports more than $300,000,000 worth of business yearly.

It issues more waybills, he said, than all the railroad systems of the country combined, and the average value of the express cargo from New York City alone every night is $15,000,000.

MAN SMOKES AS HE KILLS SELF

Lighted Cigarette Between Lips of New York Actor.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—In a secluded ravine in the Bronx, a lighted cigarette dangling from the smiling lips, the body of Arthur Crawford, actor and humorist, was found yesterday with a bullet wound in the heart and a revolver nearby.

A passerby heard the shot and summoned policemen. In Crawford's pocket they found a letter to his son, an instructor in physical education at Columbia University, and his will.

INQUIRY INTO THEFTS AT CAMP

Losses at Camp Grant Put in Hundreds of Thousands.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Federal agents asserted yesterday that supplies valued at several hundred thousand dollars had been stolen from Camp Grant during the last two years and added that an investigation was under way. About $15,000 worth of the stolen property has been recovered. The statements of the Federal agents followed the indictment at Frankfort, Ill., of five persons in connection with the thefts and the arrest of Miss Lillian Goldman of Rockford, Ill., accused of complicity in the thefts.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Trading was very active at the opening of the cotton market yesterday. There were heavy overnight selling and buying, but the market turned around during the day and finished higher. German political situation by uncertainty over the new government caused a decline in some of the high-grade rails and Liberties, which started in somewhat lower latitudes than regained the loss. What was shown, it was confounded, was that the investment market had been shaken in much the same way as the speculative market by the necessities of hard-pressed sellers. People who had been caught in the slump in stocks were compelled to sell out bonds as a measure of self-protection.

New Haven broke sharply in the last hour, and this had a deterring effect upon the other rails. The industrials, which gave the best account of themselves were Studebaker, Baldwin Locomotive, the can shakers, the Duran Bros. issues, Corn Products and National Lead.

Wall Street News and Comment SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—After two hours today of considerable uncertainty during which further liquidation had to be absorbed on a large scale and fresh attacks by operators for the decline had to be met, the stock market experienced a turn for the better.

Even in the minds of the most pessimistic the question was as to if made and not outside conditions. The main thing which professional Wall street had in mind again today was the possible extent of the forced liquidation which had been gathering momentum on the two previous days. Whether or not this liquidation was reasonable was not considered. It was sufficient that pools and individuals who, it was thought, had overextended in their operations for the rise during the summer and again in the early autumn, had finally been driven to get out best they could.

At times like this values are lost sight of, and it is simply a case of the downward movement continuing until the victims of the decline have finished their sacrifices, selling and stocks have passed into hands that are fully able to hold them.

Along with the improvement in foreign government issues, the advance was still stronger. The advance was especially marked in some of the high-grade rails and Liberties, which started in somewhat lower latitudes than regained the loss. What was shown, it was confounded, was that the investment market had been shaken in much the same way as the speculative market by the necessities of hard-pressed sellers. People who had been caught in the slump in stocks were compelled to sell out bonds as a measure of self-protection.

New Haven broke sharply in the last hour, and this had a deterring effect upon the other rails. The industrials, which gave the best account of themselves were Studebaker, Baldwin Locomotive, the can shakers, the Duran Bros. issues, Corn Products and National Lead.

The Bond Market.

A much better tone was in evidence in the bond market today. In a few instances there were sharp rallies from yesterday's lows. This was notably the case with the French bonds, both the 8s and the 7s, gaining two or three points in the first half of the day. French bonds were also up, and the market was up to 76c. The market's closing was another 10 points to 78c. The improved stock market brought back some of the gains of yesterday in the last hour. Both January and close dates rose to 76c. December closed at 76 1/2c. March 26, 26 1/2c.

SENATOR-ELECT DILL
ONCE POLICE REPORTER

Victor Over Poindexter in Washington—Has Served Two Terms in Lower House.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 15.—In being elected to the United States Senate last week, former Congressman C. C. Dill, Democrat, reached the goal which he says he set for himself when as a boy he worked on a farm in the Middle West. Ten years ago Dill was police reporter for the Spokane Spokesman-Review. Later he taught school, was a Governor's secretary, practiced law and served two terms in the House of Representatives at Washington.

Although Dill's election was largely due to the bitterness that sprang up against Senator Poindexter in the State because of his vote in favor of seating Senator Newberry, Dill won many votes for himself by his tireless campaigning. He is a good speaker. Last spring he told a friend: "I haven't a chance this fall unless times are not the best and the people satisfied, for Washington is a strong Republican State. If conditions are not right I will not run, but I think they will be." He ran and won with the support of the newspapers in the State opposed to him.

During his service in Congress he was chairman of the congressional committee that toured the battle-fields of France during the war.

Dill will be one of the youngest members of the upper house. He is 37 years old and a bachelor.

Is a "Pick-Up" Friend Ever Worth While?

Would the Man You Meet in This Way Make You a Good Husband?

By Betty Vincent.

Could You Always Feel "Sure of" the Girl Who Permits Flirtation?

By Betty Vincent.

EVERY young man and young woman in this city faces this problem at some time in their lives. "Shall I encourage the pick-up friend?"

Youth makes friends easily and so many times there are men or girls whom you think you would love to know. Sometimes on the subway, or sitting directly opposite you at the show, a face looks into yours and draws you like a magnet. "Gee, I'd give anything to know that girl," flashes through the young man's brain, while the girl thinks, "Why does he keep us from speaking?"

Sometimes the young man and the young woman "pick up" an acquaintance then and there, but more frequently they pass on, and this is really the thing to do. Remember in cases like this the worth-while young man will not speak to a girl unless he is introduced and the refined girl never picks up friends just because she "likes their looks."

Two girls will go alone to the movies and see two young men who are also alone. Naturally, since all are young, the thought flashes between them, "Why not hit up an acquaintance?" But girls who make friends with strange men like this seldom form lasting or worth-while acquaintances. Even though the young men are respectable and only out for a lark they will look upon the girls with a doubt. "I only picked her up," a young chap will think, and turn to the girl whom he has known at school or been properly introduced.

The Young Fox Gets Away

By Thornton W. Burgess

He only who has freedom lost
May hope to fairly count the cost.

—Old Mother Nature.

THE young Fox, who was Farmer Brown's Boy's prisoner, had been a prisoner so long that he was almost happy to be free. Farmer Brown's Boy was very, very good to him. They were the best of friends. But no one can be a prisoner and be wholly happy. The young Fox had plenty to eat and nothing to worry about. He had a comfortable home and nothing to do. That seems to be the idea of happiness with some people. But it was not the young Fox's idea of happiness. He never could quite forget for even a single little minute that he was a prisoner. Sometimes when there was no one around he would lie for hours, looking out across the Green Meadows, over to the Green Forest and the Old Pasture, with such longing in his eyes that at last even Farmer Brown's Boy would have taken pity on him had he seen him.

Then very early one morning, before anyone was astir in 'Farmer Brown's house, the young Fox made a discovery. The staple which held the chain by which he was fastened to a post had become loose. The young Fox tugged at the chain and it seemed to give a little. He kept tugging and tugging and tugging. At last that staple pulled out. It pulled out so suddenly that the young Fox fell right over on his back. When he got to his feet he discovered that he was free. Yes, sir, he was free. To be sure, that chain was still fast to his collar, but it was no longer fast to that post.

The young Fox trembled all over with excitement. At first he moved very slowly. You see, he kept expecting to be brought up short by that hateful chain. But soon he discovered that that chain no longer held him. He moved faster. Then he began to trot. Then he ran. Straight for the Old Pasture he headed. How good it was to run again. How glorious it was to feel that he could go where he pleased. That hateful chain still lay behind him, but in the eye of his friend he hardly gave it a thought. Across the Green Meadows he ran and there was nothing for that chain to catch on.

It was when he reached the edge of the Old Pasture that his troubles began. That dragging chain caught in the bushes and brought him up short. It brought him up so short that it jerked him off his feet. It frightened him badly. You see, he had almost forgotten that chain and his first thought was that once more he was a prisoner.

But he soon discovered what the trouble was and managed to get out clean free from the bushes. Then he went on slowly and carefully now. In spite of this, that chain would

The Daughter of Helen Kent

By Sarah Comstock

CHAPTER XXII.

"Free!" She rose wearily. "But it's too late. I was mad for a little while, drunk with the thought of a brief paradise, ready to face any misery for the sake of it, but now—"

"That's over. I've come to my senses. No, don't urge. It's no good." In gray heaviness she drew on her wraps. "I'm 39, and I can't begin to acquire illusions at this stage of the game." She snapped a glove-fastener and laid her hand on the door-knob. She turned, as if to speak; hesitated, then—

"Oh, I wish," broke from her as she met his eyes for a single instant. "I wish it were not too late!"

She was gone. Every impulse of his desire, his will, his resolve moved to follow her, to protest, to conquer, to capture; but some opposing force chained him. He must seize her, draw her back, crush her—he who had resolved to fight her obsession to the death—why was he standing dumb and motionless?

And as the door closed upon her he realized that it was because somehow, at last, he knew.

He knew that a lifetime of battle would be no use, for she would create the very unhappiness that she anticipated by her fixed belief in it.

She was not the victim of a mere passing doubt; rather, the soul of doubt was inherent in her, it was the very essence of her nature. As Bee knew the eternal affirmative, the spirit that takes life on trust, letting what may follow as Helen was the eternal negative, disbelieving at every turn. They were like the two great world-forces, the eternal Yes and Nay, the Nay ever futile against the onward stream of life.

Irrelevantly he observed to himself:

"I'd like to know that young man who carried off her daughter." • • •

"Too late to acquire illusions." It had always been too late. His self-confident diagnosis of her "case" and his projected "cure" returned to him, fatuous and snug in his ears. He, who had been so sure of himself, of his power to fight to a finish, was left standing alone, impotent, beaten along with Helen herself, fellow-victim of her unconquerable disease.

Once, in her girlhood, that Bee must have failed her, he knew; but equally he knew that it would be his happiness. Cousin Ress talked to me about it."

"Miss Clifton, bless her! She's the sport par excellence!" His favoritism was patent. "Wasn't she great—to put off sailing till the next boat, so as to get up a jolly little wedding right in the hotel—cake, flowers and all—and to ship us off here, crying, 'Bless you, my children,' wheezing like an automobile all the time?"

"I've always felt that Cousin Ress must have a love story of her own tucked away in her heart, or she couldn't be so romantic—considering how fat she is," murmured Bee reflectively.

There were 14 unvarnished golden days, blue with late roses, sands that held the sun-warmth in their hollow, idle stalks to the Franciscan Mission, where the brown-eyed Padres welcomed them under the ancient bell-tower, loadings in a hotel garden of rustling palms and bamboo. With exquisite emphasis each day repeated the beauty of the preceding, until the fortnight became like a chime.

Gaity was not the pitch. It was all, as Bee said, too happy for that—it was so rapturous that it was still. They talked even soberly.

"Dear me, I must write to Zelle. I've been neglecting her dreadfully," she repented one day, when buying post cards of the Mission.

Philip started to reply—thought better of it—checked himself abruptly; but Bee had caught him.

"What is it—you do know anything about her now?" she asked quickly.

"He hesitated. "No," he said at length.

"But, leafing on the sand later on, she took it up."

"Phil, you do know something about Zelle. Tell me. I've never had a word from her since I told her good-by upon leaving for the Cataclou Aug. 1, though I wrote and wrote."

"It seems, Bee, that she gave her G. O., as she always called it, to you. I've found this out only very lately, inquiring here and there, putting two and two together. She kept it a secret. But—she was chosen in the beginning to dance as the star performer of the Pageant—the Indian girl. It was at her suggestion that the Indian girl was cut out, and the dance and stellar role given to the White Maiden. . . . Bee! Don't say that!"

"I can't—can't bear it, Phillip!"

"In time you can—for you will realize that to a nature as rare as Zelle's such sacrifice is the supreme happiness. It hurts, I know—it hurts me, too, for I share with you. But think what it is always going to be to both of us to have had her as a friend—always to have her in memory."

"At the end of the fortnight they were married."

"I don't know even that. I only know that Zelle's gone."

"Gone?"

"Vanished. Completely. I called a few times and couldn't get in, and at last I hunted up the janitress. She said that early in August, Zelle paid up every bill in her square little way, took Villageoise, and went. Nobody knows where. The studio stands for nothing."

"Dear, don't think of anything that makes you sad," Philip begged, noting the happiness of freedom, which there is no greater happiness. So the young Fox lay down to rest.

saken, gathering dust, poor old bairnion chairs and all."

"Phill! Oh, what can it mean?"

Again he hesitated. "I think it means that Zelle saw a task she had set herself accomplished, and that then—she was through."

"My dear! You mean her seeing me launched?"

"Her seeing you launched."

"But it's as though I had driven her away, somehow."

"Don't feel that. It was her great desire—and she's a vasabond by instinct. I wasn't going to tell you what I have learned about her. But I believe, on second thoughts, I shall."

"It seems, Bee, that she gave her G. O., as she always called it, to you. I've found this out only very lately, inquiring here and there, putting two and two together. She kept it a secret. Their hands clasped, and he whirled her, dizzily, to the tune of her enraptured squeals.

"Darling! Now can't we have an electric toaster?" was her passionate request. And:

"An electric toaster shall celebrate the first breakfast at home of Mrs. and Mr. Philip R. Oliver. And you may burn the toast, as much as you desire," was his promise.

And so they made ready, after the way of the world, to build and feather the nest. Helen Kent, more than 20 years before, had done the same. And the outcome for Helen Kent's daughter lay, as it had lain for her, on the knees of the gods.

EVERY nation has its soups until it is tender, adding the dishes, and tourists who eat and enjoy them. Remove the card index. They are really delicious. The chicken from the bones, cut trying, and all of the ingredients and add it to the soup. And may be purchased here in little chopped parsley and seasoning if needed.

Hindu Eggs.

Mince fine a cupful of blanched eggs hard, and when cold wash, scrape and scald for five minutes two bunches of young car-dish, dusting them with pepper, salt and a teaspoonful of curvy powder. Beat two eggs well and add salt, pepper, a teaspoonful of cornstarch dissolved in a tablespoonful of cream and two tablespoonsfuls of butter, beat well and pour the mixture into the pudding dish. Sprinkle the top with crumb and bake in a moderate oven a delicate brown.

Swiss Brussels Sprouts.

Trim a basketful of fresh Brussels sprouts and boil them rapidly until tender, drain and add to them a cupful of stock and two tablespoonfuls of butter, salt and pepper. Cook gently for a few minutes, then add a pound of boiled chestnuts halved and a half-cupful of cream. Serve at once.

French Carrots.

Wash, scrape and scald for five minutes two bunches of young car-

The Independent Grocer His Heroic Service

NO. 5 OF A SERIES

In the Winter months all kinds of weather can be looked for. It may be sleet and slush one day, when the possibility of contracting pneumonia is most prevalent because of wet feet. The next day this slush may freeze, the sidewalks and streets are slippery, which results in accidents—broken legs, arms, or more serious injury frequently happens. Or, perhaps, it is intensely cold and there is a raging blizzard. The housewife dreads to venture out and will not risk her children going to the store for food supplies for the day.

Then is when the service of the independent grocer can be appreciated most. He does not remain within the confines of his store and insist upon the housewife coming to him if the dinner table is to be provided for. She does not have to submit to the dangers of the elements when she trades with the independent neighborhood grocer or go without the usual well prepared assortment for the table.

It is the independent grocer and his faithful employees who take the chance of catching a bad cold, the possibility of a broken limb or suffer the trying discomforts of a biting cold day, which is increased if there is a drifting blizzard. They don't stop to consider the weather. They have patrons to look after. Know they are relying upon them for their food supply and invariably deliver the goods in spite of the severe handicap under which they must work.

If this independent grocer was not in business at the beck and call of the people under these trying weather conditions someone in the household would be compelled to perform his services. If not, the family would be forced to accept makeshift meals until the weather was less disturbing and uncomfortable. There would be no other escape under the circumstances as there is but one source from which food could be obtained when such conditions prevail—and that is the independent grocer.

He and his employees suffer hardships to render service when the housewife cannot get food in any other way. That being literally true it is only fair to the independent grocer that he be favored with the same patronage when the days are balmy, as one good turn deserves another.

CONJUGAL KICKERS

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

MORAL—There Are Too Many Kicks in Marriage—and Not Enough "Kick!"

A LADY whose husband is in the movies

Wants to dethrone him as the star of her domestic drama, Wants a divorce, in short, Because he kicks so much!

She says he kicks About the grocery and butcher bill, About her lemon meringue pie and potato au gratin and corn muffins, About her ideas on bringing up the baby,

About her financial policy in hanging onto her own bank book, About the scenery and the temperature when they go limousining together—

About pretty nearly every darned thing indoors and out.

The dear woman is tired of serving as whipping-girl Every time her husband has a grouch.

You can't blame her! Just the same,

There's no sex in conjugal kickers—Male and female created He them. I know a woman

Who kicks because her husband has to work late two nights a month, Because he sometimes stays in town for dinner.

Because on Sunday mornings he eats breakfast in his shirt sleeves, Because he won't go to church,

Because he refuses to let their 15-year-old son drive the car,

Because he likes boiled onions with his roast beef,

Because he thinks Harold Lloyd is funny

And Chaplin a bore,

Because he jokes with the maid—"so undignified."

Because he won't join a bridge club,

Because he busts the Volstead act,

Because he is too devoted to his dinner partner,

Because he isn't devoted enough,

Because he never tells his wife anything funny,

Because he tells her something funny but shocking,

Because he is jealous of her old beau,

Because—he is kicking!

You see, the kicking wife and the kicking husband

Consider that their respective partners come under a great natural law—

"Whatever is in WRONG!"

I wonder If there aren't too many kicks per square marriage—

And not enough "kick!"

For a "kick" is what makes a motor engine go,

And what makes a cocktail go down!

(Copyright, 1922.)

It's the mysterious, mighty THRILL That breathes life into dead machinery—and men.

There's plenty of "kick" in courtship,

When each is ready to "drink to me only with thine eyes."

And I will pledge with mine"—

But the "kick" in the average marriage Isn't  $\frac{1}{2}$  of 1 percent!

As for the conjugal kickers—they'll admit it themselves—

The dull, drab dryness of their lives.

And they'll tell you who's to blame:

The husband who criticizes instead of kissing.

The wife who puts sneers in the place of faith.

The trouble is they're BOTH right—

And that's why ALL the "kick" gets taken out of married life!

Love Letters That Made History

By JOSEPH KAYE

Lafayette and Marie Adrienne de Noailles

LAFADETTE left France upon hearing of America's Declaration of Independence and came to offer his services to the people of the new world. But even such a halo of patriotic impulse could not cloak the man and in the midst of his battles for Washington, Lafayette the husband felt himself ready to forsake the soldier for the embalmed heart of his young wife.

After Brandywine, when Lafayette lay wounded in the little community of Bethlehem, this is the letter he sent home:

"* * * Consider, dear heart, that the only news I have received from you has been by the Count Pulaski.

Think how terrible it is to be far from all that I love, in so helpless an uncertainty. I cannot bear it, and yet I feel that I deserve no pity. Why was I crazy to come here? I am well punished. * * * My dear heart, if I have good news of you, of all that I love, if your charming letters arrive today—how happy I shall be! But alas, with what anxiety I shall open them! My poor little Henrietta has given me a thousand thoughts, speak to her of me but do not tell her the evil that I deserve. My punishment will be not to recognize her on my return. This is a penalty which Henrietta shall impose upon

TOO MUCH KNOWLEDGE FOR ONE MIND.

THOMAS WYATT was a Mississippi planter, one of the most generous and hospitable of a breed of men renowned for their hospitality and their generosity. His bachelor home, "Belmont," in Holmes County, was a haven of refuge for any down-and-outer. A stranger might come when he pleased and stay as long as he pleased.

One summer a certain brilliant and well-born but dissipated young lawyer was Wyatt's guest. In periods of repentance and temporary abstinence this gentleman spent his spare hours in poring over the Scriptures.

Wyatt, who was an outdoor man and no great shakes of a reader, said to him:

"Jim, you must have read mighty near half way through the Good Book by this time, haven't you?"

"Why, Tom," said the visitor, "I've read it all the way through, not once, but several times."

"You mean from cover to cover, without skipping a word?"

"Yes, sir, from cover to cover."

Wyatt slowly absorbed this remarkable statement. After a long pause he made answer:

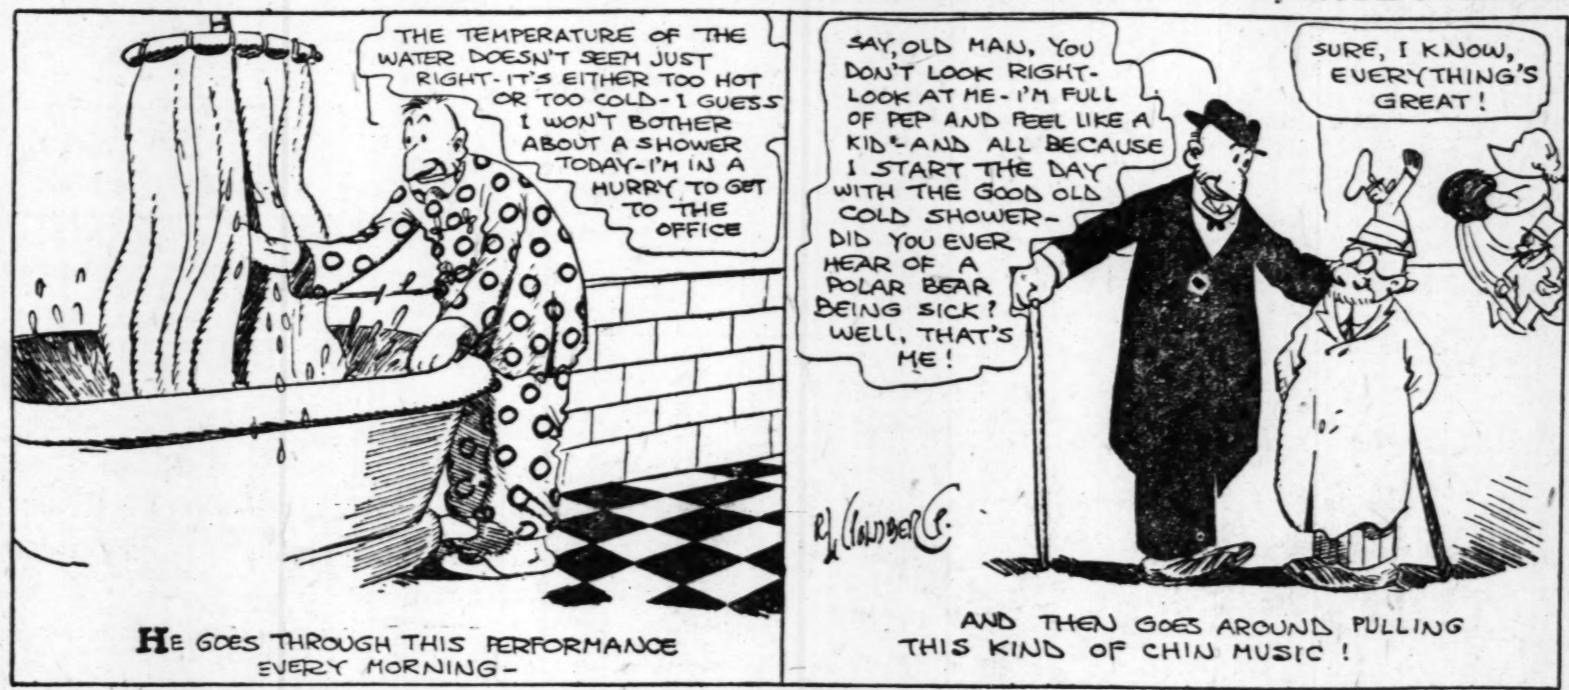

"Jim," he said, "I'm reminded of a remark I once heard made by an old fellow down in the Delta. He said that when any man told him he knew all the multiplication table he must be a damn liar!"

MUSSOLINI TELLS PARLIAMENT HE WILL 'EXACT' FROM
IT A FREE HAND

Fascisti Premier Defiantly Declares in Speech to De puties Nation Has Obtained a New Ministry Outside of
and in Spite of the Legis lators.

SAYS "REVOLUTION HAS ITS RIGHTS"

Minister Appears Before
Chamber With More Self-Confidence Than Any
Since War—Many Black
Shirts in Audience.

By the Associated Press
ROME, Nov. 15.—Premier Musso lini, in his first address to this Cham ber of Deputies today threw down
the gauntlet to that body and indi cated in unmistakable terms that he was not there to ask favors but to receive them.

"What I am doing today," said the Fascisti Premier, "is a formal act of courage towards you for which I do not desire any special expression of gratitude.

"For too many years ministerial crises have been settled by the Cham ber, by political maneuver, but for the second time—the first was in May, 1915—the Italian nation has overthrown the cabinet and given itself a ministry outside of above, in spite of, Parliament.

"Revolution Has Rights."

I leave the melancholy worship ers of superconstitutionalism the dissertations and complaints, but I say that revolution has its rights. I would add that the whole world may know that I am here to defend and to put into execution to its highest capacity of the revolution of the Black Shirts, to introduce it as a force of development, progress and balance in the history of Italy."

The new Premier acquainted the Parliament with his program of in ternal reform. He explained briefly the Government's foreign policy and demanded blanket authority for a free hand in the execution of fis cal and bureaucratic changes.

Mussolini's parliamentary debut as Premier was impressive. Never since the war has an Italian Premier ap peared before the Parliament with such self-confidence. Though the number of Fascisti Deputies only reaches 31 out of more than 500, the new chief of the Cabinet exhibited no apologetic tones, which was the custom of his predecessors who op erated with coalition forces.

Black Shirts Prominent.

To use his own word he simply "exacted" a vote of confidence. He put himself forward as not asking the support of the Chamber, but as one who had summoned it to show cause why it should not be dissolved and bound over to keep the peace for two years until 1924, when its duration would automatically expire
according to the Italian Constitution.

The Chamber hall was packed.
Black shirts were especially promi nent in the visitors' tribunes to the extreme left overlooking the benches where the Socialists and Communi st Deputies sat. The latter have main tained a persistent opposition to all recent Italian governments excepting that of former Premier Nicotera.

The diplomatic tribune also was crowded with the entire diplomatic corps Ambassador Child, although depart ing tomorrow for the Turkish confer ence, was present with the entire American embassy staff.

"300,000 Men Fully Armed.

In his address Mussolini said:
"I have imposed limits on myself.
I have told myself that it is the high est vision not to abandon one's self after the victory. With 300,000 men, fully armed and thoroughly deter mined to obey my orders. I was in a position to punish all those who de cried Fascism and who conspired against it."

"In regard to the foreign policy of Italy, we wished to follow a course of dignity and usefulness. We are not able to follow a policy of ultralism or completely abandon the others."

Those who desire to see practical proofs of our friendship must give us the same proofs."
